WE SELL FOR PROMPT CASH ONLY.—Our goods are marked at a rate of profit usual on wholesale transactions. We keep no books. Our scale of charges is regulated exclusively for customers who, NOT requiring CREDIT themselves, are disinclined to pay for those who DO require credit, and for others who do not pay at all.
FARMER and COMPANY.

THIS MORNING.
We have this morning passed into stock 256 pieces of All Wool Beige that have reached us a little later than we expected, and which, to clear immediately, we have marked 12½d per yard, instead of 14½d, at which price we should sell them according to our ordinary rate of profit. All the new colours are represented, and, as far as we know, you can buy nothing elsewhere in Sydney under 1s 6d per yard that can be compared with our cloth in point of value. Patterns ready for the country. FARMER and COMPANY.

OLD FASHIONS REPRODUCED.—MUFFS.
We have before us an engraving of the figure of an English lady of quality with a small muff pendant to her girdle. Temp. 1588. M. Quicherat testifies to their being a novel object in France in the reign of Henri Trois, 1574—1588. And Planché tells us the early muffs were made of satin and velvet lined with fur, and appeared almost simultaneously in England. Later on, in No. 16 of the Spectator, the writer informs the public that he has received a letter desiring him to be very satirical upon the little muff now in fashion. Well, we have some of these little muffs, exact reproductions of the old time articles, looking, beside much of the present fashion finery, quaint and odd, but perfect little gems nevertheless. Some are of satin curiously quilted, enriched with a delicate artificial rose; some of velvet, ornamented with wallflower, or jessamine, or pansey; others of plush, with bows of ribbon here and there. In some, purses have been introduced, combining utility with ornamentation. All are novel. And the prices are 10s 6d, 12s 6d, 14s 6d, and so on to 21s; prompt cash only. FARMER and COMPANY.

DRESS FABRICS.
The winter season is well advanced, and, notwithstanding that our output has more than doubled that of past winters, little or no diminution in the really splendid assortment of materials is observable in our Dress Department. Rapid and regular steam communication with London enables us to present a stock of Dress Fabrics remarkable for its freshness even at this advanced period. Purchasers cannot now complain of anything approaching a scanty assortment. In addition to the standard materials for which our Dress Department is noted, we shall show this week some choice Heather Homespuns at 9½d; some very choice colours in Russell Cord, at 10d; a splendid range of Sattara Reps, at 1s; and some pure Scotch Homespun Serges, at 1s 2d, which surpass anything submitted this season. Mention must also be made of our double width Matelasse Homespuns, at 2s11d, which, as a superior costume Cloth, have really no rival.
FARMER and COMPANY.

FARMER'S GUINEA BLANKETS.
These excellent goods, which in weight, size, and quality of wool surpass any blanket that can be purchased in the city of Sydney at 26s 6d, are now to hand in full assortment. Many customers who have inspected these goods, and with commendable economy seeking to spend their money to the best advantage, have visited other city stores in search of better value, have returned to us to purchase, endorsing without reserve our statement as above, viz., that our Guinea Blankets are unequalled anywhere at 26s 6d. But we sell at wholesale prices for prompt cash, and thus save the retailer's profit to all who patronise us.
FARMER and COMPANY.

HOSIERY.
We have nice sightly cashmere hose commencing 8d per pair for children's sizes, up to 1s per pair for ladies'; better navy cashmere 1s for children's, to 1s 6d for ladies'; superior quality cashmere, nice shades, such as navy, seal, brown, &c., 1s 3d for children's, to 1s 9d for ladies'. Then we have a very large parcel, bought exceptionally cheap, of ladies' ribbed cashmere, some 500 dozens, worth 2s 6d, that we are selling at 1s 6d per pair. We have also extra quality plain cashmere 2s 9d for children's, to 3s 6d for ladies' (old time price 5s), beautiful goods, in such colours as navy, prune, seal, grenat, cardinal, light blue, pan, &c.; while our extra super ribbed cashmere goods, for style, finish, and colourings, by far surpass anything we have hitherto shown. FARMER and COMPANY.

FRENCH MILLINERY.
A wonderfully nice assortment, just opened, ex mail steamer. Ladies' Velvet and Plush Hats, 12s 6d to 25s; Ladies' Seal Hats, 9s 6d, 10s 6d; Velvet and Plush Bonnets, 21s to 42s; Children's Trimmed Hats, 10s 6d to 18s 6d; boys' and girls' felt hats, 2s 6d and 3s; children's white Astrachan, Rink and Tam O'Shanter shapes, 6s 6d. Wholesale prices for prompt cash. FARMER'S.

FRENCH SILKS.
Silks of a pure unweighted character are, as a rule, difficult to obtain, and purchasers are very apt to be misled in making their selections. The safest rule to follow in selecting is to have goods of a first-class maker, and only such. There are not more than some half-dozen good makers in France, and between these, one maker excepted, there is not any very great difference. But the difference between the best and the second-best is most marked. It is Eclipse first, and the rest nowhere. Bonnet, the great Lyons manufacturer, towers thus like a colossus among his contemporaries. Other makers can't approach him. . . . We sell more of Bonnet's Silks than are sold elsewhere in all Australia. We say this advisedly. For this reason, we were selected to represent him at the New South Wales Great Exhibition. FARMER and COMPANY.

LADIES' UNDERCLOTHING.
We have an unequalled stock of good articles in ladies' underclothing. We have never made up a common calico, and we are not now going to commence. But we sell at close wholesale rates for ready money, and are thus able to quote a really good article for the same price as is paid every day for inferior goods. Lately we have added an underclothing branch to our London factory, and the saving effected fairly surprises one. We commence ladies' chemises at 17s 6d per half dozen, drawers at 16s 6d, night dresses at 32s. We have under-skirts in nice winter textures, from 4s 11d each. We have a nice assortment of ladies' wrappers from 18s 6d to 50s each; and, as regards infants' clothing, well, come and see. How much of the mortality in infant life is due to unsuitable clothing, and how much may be averted by seeing that the little ones are properly clad, is a question worthy of the gravest consideration.
FARMER and COMPANY.

DRAWING-ROOM FURNITURE.
The Queen Anne Drawing-Room Suite, in black and gold, a speciality designed by our Mr. R. Venn Brown, and not elsewhere obtainable, price 16 guineas. Black and Gold Occasional Tables, 25s, 30s, 35s. Black and Gold Card Tables, 3 guineas. Black and Gold Orrinsmith Cabinet, a perfect gem, 12 guineas. Stuffed-over Occasional Chairs, for the Drawing-Room or Boudoir, our special patterns, The Langtry, The Enid, The Windsor, The Guinevere, The Grandmama, and others, upholstered in charming French Cretonnes, most comfortable and luxurious, from 42s upwards.
FARMER and COMPANY.

BENT-WOOD FURNITURE.
We hold the largest stock in Sydney of Austrian Chairs, Rockers, Sofas, Couches, Sofa Bedsteads, &c., all marked at the lowest cash prices. We are the only firm in Sydney who issue an Illustrated Catalogue of Bent-wood Furniture, which may be had on application, and which is invaluable to country residents who desire to see the various styles previous to ordering.
FARMER and COMPANY.

BEDSTEADS.
A most comprehensive assortment, including every style and price required for furnishing any description of residence. We purposely avoid keeping common bedsteads, preferring to be able to guarantee everyone we sell to stand fair hard wear. We commence our half-testers at 26s 6d; and have every quality and style from that price up to twenty-one guineas. We show specialities in full size Black and Gold Half Tester Bedsteads, with solid brass mountings, very elegant designs, at 5 guineas, which we believe are not to be matched in the city under £8 15s. Then we have the largest stock of SPRING MATTRESSES out of London, both English, American, German, and Colonial made goods. Our prices are strictly wholesale, as we sell for ready-money only.
FARMER and CO.

ART CURTAINS.
A fresh shipment, comprising our now well-known standard patterns, intermixed with several newly drawn designs, chiefly Anglo-Japanese and Persian in character. Each curtain is indeed a study; price 21s per pair. Also, handsome Nottingham Lace Curtains, beautifully drawn patterns, in the conventionalised foliage of the early English period, 10s 6d, 12s 6d, 14s 6d, 16s 6d, up to 63s per pair. Curtain buyers should not fail to see our really grand assortment before purchasing. FARMER and CO.

HIGH CLASS TAILORING.
For prompt cash only. Gentlemen who pay have not to find the money for those who don't. Cutters: Messrs. Shearsby, Phillips, and Irish. Trousers (a splendid selection of materials) commence 16s 6d. Suits, £3 11s 6d. Every garment hand-made, and fitted to the entire satisfaction of purchaser. FARMER and COMPANY.

OVERCOATS.
We are able to sell a Scotch Tweed Overcoat at 21s that costs 30s in other shops; a Grampian Tweed Ulster at 25s that you pay 35s for elsewhere; a superior West of England Serge Overcoat at 36s 6d that costs 50s in most houses. True, the principle of our NEW SYSTEM (aided by the large saving effected in our London factory) comes in here and helps us, to wit, PROMPT CASH PAYMENTS by buyer and seller. FARMER and CO.

MACINTOSH COATS.
2000 from a noted manufacturer, a clearing line. The best Oxford and Grey Diagonals, with plaid linings, vulcanite between textures, can be used as ordinary overcoat if required. The best fitting coat, and the cheapest we have ever seen, 30s prompt cash. FARMER'S.

TWEED SUITS, GENTLEMEN'S, at 27s 6d.
Pure Bannockburn and Grampian Tweed Suits, all thoroughly shrunk, fashionable shape, will fit any sort of figure, 27s 6d net wholesale price for ready money, cannot match them in any wholesale house in the city under 30s; ordinary retail price in most houses 37s 6d and 40s. FARMER'S only.

GENTLEMEN'S WINTER SOCKS,
splendid quality merino, 10s 6d per dozen; extra quality Cashmere, 16s 6d per dozen. A single pair at the same rate. All marked at wholesale prices for prompt cash. FARMER'S.

GENTLEMEN'S UNDERSHIRTS, &c.
A splendid assortment. Gentlemen's Merino Undershirts, warm, fleecy, durable, 2s 3d upwards. Gentlemen's Drawers equally cheap. Ladies' and Gentlemen's Sleeping Hose, quite a luxury these very cold nights, better than any warming-pan. Gentlemen's Cardigan Jackets, with and without sleeves. Every item at wholesale price, for prompt cash. FARMER'S only.

TWEEDS BY THE YARD.
Any length cut, and only the lowest wholesale price charged. We sell the best plain Colonial Tweeds at 3s 6d per yard. We commence our Scotch and West of England Tweeds at 2s 9d, then 3s, 3s 6d, 4s, 4s 6d, and so on. We are cutting double width Bliss extra stout Tweeds at 8s 6d per yard, and have every shade and pattern. Silks, buttons, twists, braid, and every description of trimmings to match the tweeds at the lowest wholesale prices for prompt cash. FARMER and COMPANY.

OVERCOATS, EXTRA SIZES.
A splendid selection of large size Overcoats, suitable for extra large and stout figures, is now open for inspection. Prices, 21s, 25s, 27s 6d, 33s 6d, 40s, 42s, 55s, and 60s. FARMER and COMPANY.

JUVENILE SUITS, at 7s 6d.
Most marvellous purchase. The entire stock of a Birmingham Juvenile Clothier in the wholesale business. The assortment includes a variety of shapes in all-wool tweeds and serges, suitable for boys from 3½ to 10 years of age. Some of the suits are neatly, others elaborately braided, some quite plain. There is not a single suit in the assortment that has ever been sold under 12s 6d in Sydney, and most of them would readily realise from 18s to 21s. Exhibition of samples is now being made in our outfitting window. There are about 1500 in the entire purchase, but the value is such that a few weeks will run them out. Early selection is imperative in order to prevent disappointment.

FOR PRIVATE SALE.
NEW SHIPMENT of BLACK and SILVER UPRIGHT GRAND OBLIQUE TRICHORD PIANOFORTES, by LIPP and SOHN, TO THE TRADE.
BRADLEY, NEWTON, and LAMB, Auctioneers, Pianoforte and Furniture Warehousemen, Spring and O'Connell streets.

SOME of the most superb German PIANOFORTES ever imported have been just unpacked, and present a better opportunity for selection than we have ever yet been able to offer. Intending purchasers are invited to inspect these goods without delay, and to compare the Grand and Upright Pianos by Ronisch, Schultz, Lipp, Schiedmayer, Schwechten, &c., side by side with the Erard, Collard, and Broadwood instruments, now so fast going out of date.
It is a remarkable fact that the most prejudiced, who will but take the trouble to thoroughly inspect, try, and compare the productions of different countries in Pianofortes, invariably acknowledge the superiority of Germany, and it would be a striking anomaly if the country that has produced the greatest musicians did not also produce the finest instruments. Perhaps the best proof of the superiority of the German Pianos is found in the fact that nearly ALL THE ENGLISH MAKERS, great and small, are unwillingly COPYING the GERMAN instruments, by introducing iron frames, check actions, increased compass, panelled fronts, &c.
NICHOLSON and CO. invite the severest and most complete tests of their German importations. They guarantee them for 5 to 7 years, and every day receive unsolicited testimonials from customers in all parts of the country who have acted on their advice, based on over twenty years' experience in the Australian Colonies.
All instruments can be purchased either for cash or on easy terms to suit the buyer. Price lists post free.
NICHOLSON and CO., 325, George-street, Sydney; and 45, Collins-street East, Melbourne.

The Treasury, New South Wales, June 17, 1881.
TO MEDICAL MEN, CLERGYMEN, MAGISTRATES, HOUSEHOLDERS, and OTHERS.
The Government, with a view to the adoption of all necessary precautions for the arrest of the spread of the disease known as the Small-pox, consider it desirable to obtain, at the earliest possible date, reliable information of all cases of sickness of a doubtful or suspicious character which may exist or occur in the city and suburbs.
Medical men, clergymen, magistrates, householders, and others throughout the city and suburbs, are therefore requested to furnish information of the nature required to the Health Officer, the Inspector-General of Police, to any member of the Police Force, or to any official person, for the purpose of being communicated to the Government.

A P O L O G Y.
CRAWSHAW, M'CLELLAND, and VARLEY, 94, KING-STREET, beg to offer an apology to those ladies who did not receive that attention yesterday for which their establishment is famed. So many ladies being anxious to secure some of the genuine bargains offered at our GREAT SALE caused an unprecedented crush, so that our attention was very much divided. We would suggest the advisability of making purchases early in the morning, and thus avoid any confusion. Parcels not delivered last night will be sent early to-day.

Our FRENCH SATIN HOMESPUN (all wool) is THE DRESS OF THE SEASON, at 9d per yard, are worth 15d.

LACES, RIBBONS, GLOVES, &c.
We are constantly opening up fresh shipments of the above—in fact almost every MAIL STEAMER that arrives from Europe brings some additions to our large stock in this department. We have BUYERS in the HOME MARKETS, ever on the alert for each novelty as it issues from the hands of the MANUFACTURERS, so that the ladies of this colony may be abreast of those at home in the matter of FASHION.
HAYMARKET (only).

JUVENILE SUITS, 5s 11d.
We have just received from one of the FIRST-CLASS LONDON MANUFACTURERS a line of JUVENILE SUITS, which we are selling at 5s 11d—a figure which may raise doubts as to their quality, but we have no hesitation in saying they are not equalled in this city at 10s 6d. They embrace a variety of designs; some are plain, some are trimmed, all are of gentlemanly appearance, and we can promise a fit equal to that of ordered garments; but, above all, NOTE THE PRICE, 5s 11d.
HAYMARKET (only).

JUVENILE SUITS, 5s 11d.
The item we are now quoting is no exceptional one. We have always on hand similar bargains, having made arrangements with our HOME MANUFACTURERS whereby large shipments of MEN'S, BOYS', and JUVENILE CLOTHING will follow each other at regular intervals; and we are, therefore, not under the necessity of doing our business by fits and starts, as it is done in some of the large houses in the trade.
HAYMARKET (only).

JUVENILE SUITS, 5s 11d.
We would particularly request the public to bear in mind that we have ONLY ONE ESTABLISHMENT, and are NOT CONNECTED with any other trading under a SIMILAR NAME.

TOWN TALK!

DIOCESAN SYNOD OF SYDNEY.

The sittings of the Diocesan Synod were resumed at the Church Society's House, Phillip-street, yesterday. The president (the Dean of Sydney) presided. Prayers having been read, the minutes of the previous sitting were read and confirmed.

THE DOCTRINE OF ABSOLUTION.

Mr. JOSEPH B. DURHAM asked:—"1. Is there any canon or constitution of the United Church of England and Ireland which forbids a deacon to read the absolution? 2. If a deacon be not allowed to read it on account of the rubric stating it is to be pronounced by the priest alone, should he not be equally forbiden to read the sentences which the rubric states that the priest should say? 3. Are not the words priests and ministers convertible terms in the order for morning prayer? 4. Is it the doctrine of the United Church of England and Ireland that the congregation receive the benefit of absolution through a priest pronouncing the absolution? 5. Was not the word priest at the last revision of the Prayer Book substituted for the word minister in the absolution rubric?"

The PRESIDENT replied:—"1. I do not know of any such canon: but the question is open to much dispute. In Dr. Burn's Ecclesiastical Law, (ninth ed., vol. iii., p. 59), I find it stated that it is not clear from the rubric in the Book of Common Prayer whether, or how far, a deacon is prohibited thereby to pronounce the absolution; for, although it is there directed that the same shall be pronounced by the 'priest alone,' yet the word 'alone' in that place seemeth only to intend that the people shall not pronounce the absolution after the priest, as they did the confession just before; and the word 'priest' throughout the rubric doth not seem to be generally appropriated to a person in priest's orders only. Dr. Burn goes on to say that the argument to evince that the priest only, and not a deacon, has power to pronounce the absolution seems most evidently to be deduced from the Acts of Ordination. To the deacon it is said:—'Take thou authority to read the Gospel and to preach the same, &c.' To the priest:—'Receive the Holy Ghost for the office and work of a priest in the Church of God. Whose sins thou dost forgive, they are forgiven; and whose sins thou dost retain, they are retained.' Mr. Durham will thus see that there are two sides to the question; and as I do not sit here as a judge, nor as an authorized expounder of the law, I do not think I am called upon to decide it. I will only add that the custom for the Deacon not to pronounce the absolution, seems almost to have grown into a law. 2. No answer need be given to this, as it was dependent upon the previous question being answered in the negative. 3. I do not think they are so in all cases. 4. I am not sure that I take these words as Mr. Durham may have intended them. The benefit which I understand to be derived from the declaration of forgiveness in the absolution is this—that everyone in the congregation who is conscious that he does truly repent and unfeignedly believe the Gospel, may take to himself the comforting assurance which the form of absolution conveys. 5. Yes."

THE CHURCH SOCIETY.

The PRESIDENT informed Mr. H. S. Bond that there were 49 parishes in which branches of the Church Society had been formed, and 29 in which they had not.

MOTION FOR ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. CLARENDON STUART moved the adjournment of the House for the purpose of making a personal explanation. There was an article in each of that morning's daily papers reflecting upon himself and those seven gentlemen who voted with him on Friday night last. He was accused in one article of being bigoted, and sitting in judgment upon his fellow Christians. He was also compared to a Pharisee, and the other party were compared to the Publican. He was perfectly prepared, if the gentleman chose, that the other side should adopt the role of the Publican who smote upon his breast, and said, "God be merciful to me a sinner;" but he was not prepared to accept the role of the Pharisee who said, "I thank God that I am not as other men." In alluding to dissenters he had, on the contrary, spoken in the most respectful terms of them, and had said that he envied them many good and clever men they possessed. He also complained that he had not only had his motives misrepresented, but, while the speeches of the president and the Rev. Mr. Barnier, who were opposed to him, had been reported, he (Mr. Stuart) had not been reported. If, in the army of her Majesty, a private soldier saw one of his officers going over to the enemy, should he not, as a loyal soldier, take a step to prevent the desertion? Well, he was a private soldier in the army of the Church, and he thought it his duty to do what he could to prevent the desertion of the four or five officers whom he knew were temporising, and of those whom he did not know. (Hear, hear.) Mr. Stuart was proceeding to refer at some length to the subject of the resolution he had proposed on Friday night, when

Mr. ALEXANDER STUART rose to a point of order. It would, he thought, be most unwise to reopen the discussion.

The PRESIDENT ruled that to reopen the discussion would be out of order.

Mr. C. STUART regretted that he had passed beyond the bounds of personal explanation. He, however, desired to formally draw the attention of the President to a letter signed "Zachary Barry," which appeared in that morning's Herald in reference to the marriage regulations. In that letter the writer stated, virtually, that he had acted in pure defiance of the Synod, and gloried in it.

CONVENTION OF THE SYNOD.

Mr. ALEXANDER GORDON (on behalf of Canon King) moved,—"That the Synod's convening rule of 1881 be now read a second time. Proposed rule—Whereas it is desirable to determine by rule of Synod the periods within which a Synod of the diocese may be convened and holden, the Synod ordains and rules as follows:—1. A Synod of the diocese may be convened and holden at any time by summons of the Bishop or the person by whom, for the time being, the powers vested in the Bishop may be exercised. 2. This rule may be cited as the 'Synod's Convening Rule of 1881.'"

The motion was agreed to, the rules passed through committee without amendment, and read a third time and passed.

SUPERANNUATION ORDINANCE.

On the motion of Mr. JAMES VICKERY, the Ordinance to amend the Superannuation Ordinance of 1876 was read a third time and passed.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The Rev. W. HEY SHARP moved,—"That the name of Mr. F. W. Uther be added to the committee on the subject of religious instruction in Public schools." In doing so he referred to the second annual report of the committee appointed by the Synod on the 27th day of June, 1879, to carry into effect the resolutions passed by the Synod with regard to religious instruction in the Public schools. The report was as follows:—"During the year which has elapsed since the last meeting of the Synod, the committee has met twelve times. At the beginning of the year the committee had in hand a balance of £63 12s. 4d. The sums since contributed amount to £55; and further sums have been promised, as will be seen in Appendix A. The expenditure during the year has amounted to £90 12s. 8d. The following grants have been made by the committee:—1. The sum of £25 per annum to Mr. Raymond, engaged in giving religious instruction in eight Public schools in the district of Hartley. Mr. Raymond has now left the district; the Rev. R. H. Mayne has not yet found a suitable person to undertake the work. 2. The sum of £25 per annum, to assist in providing religious instruction in Crown-street Public school. 3. The sum of £65 per annum to Mr. Latty, engaged in giving religious instruction in the Public schools within the rural Deanery of Camden. Mr. Latty visits eight schools, containing in all 200 children. He pays eleven or twelve visits in the week, travelling for this purpose upwards of 100 miles. Grants are not made by the committee until the diocesan inspector of schools has certified to the qualifications of the teacher proposed. In December, 1880, the Bishop, by a circular letter addressed to the clergy, requested information as to the number of Public schools within their respective parishes, and the amount of religious instruction given weekly in each school. The returns received in reply will be found tabulated in Appendix (B). It will be seen that religious instruction is being given regularly in 96 schools, and that 82 schools are altogether without such instruction. In the case of 29 of these latter schools, the want of a classroom is alleged as an obstacle. Two public meetings have been held in futherance of the objects of the committee. The first of these was held in the Masonic Hall on August 10, and the proceedings were fully reported in the daily papers. The second was held in the City Mission Chapel, Sussex-street, on December 2. A series of similar meetings, to be held in various city and suburban parishes, was projected by the committee, but a difficulty was found to exist in the fear entertained by some of those locally concerned that such a plan might tend to injure existing Denominational schools. In conclusion, the committee feel that the future success or otherwise of this movement will very largely depend upon the way in which the subject may be dealt with by the Synod. Hitherto the difficulties of the question have been aggravated by the unsettled condition of the relations between the State and the Denominational schools. The recent settlement of those relations has at least left the ground more clear for united and vigorous action in the direction of giving efficient religious instruction in the Public schools.—WILLIAM M. COWPER, chairman." Mr. Sharp regretted that a more satisfactory report could not be submitted. A great deal of feeling had been exhibited in reference to this matter, and the outcome had been subscriptions to the amount of something like £100. If the people of the Church of England felt strongly upon the subject they had a peculiar way of showing it. There was, however, a very substantial grain of comfort in the fact that religious instruction was being given in so many Public schools.

The Rev. E. G. HODGSON seconded the motion.

Mr. A. GORDON pointed out that there was evidently work to be done when there were eighty-two schools which were altogether without religious instruction. The fact, however, that there were ninety-six schools in which such instruction was given proved that there was a willingness on the part of the clergy to do their work if the laity would do their work. Mr. Gordon stated that, as a member of a school Board, he had had to visit seven large schools, two of which were Church of England Denominational, two Roman Catholic Denominational, and three Public schools. He bore his hearty testimony to the efficient manner in which the Roman Catholic schools were conducted, so far as religious instruction was concerned, and in that respect they were a bright example of the Church of England schools. With regard to the Public schools the tale told by the teachers was always the same—that there was a great work for the Church of England clergy in those schools. The teachers did all they could to impress intellectual and moral lessons upon the children under their charge; and he was prepared to say that the teachers in those schools, so far as he could judge from circumstances which came under his knowledge, in visiting the schools, were as earnest as men and women could be in instructing rightly the children under their charge. They would welcome systematic and religious instruction by the clergy of any religious body. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. G. T. COLLINS thought it was now a question for the laity of the Church of England whether they would retain the Public Instruction Act of 1880 intact, or whether by their indifference, they would call into existence an Act similar to that in force in Victoria. (Hear, hear.) If they did not take advantage of the religious clauses in the existing Act, the time would not be far distant when the privileges which those clauses afforded would be taken away from them. He recommended that the members of the various school Boards should be communicated with. All the members of the Board to which he belonged were at one upon this question of religious instruction; and he believed that the members of many of the Boards might be led to actively interest themselves in the matter. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. E. W. MOLESWORTH suggested that a more systematic effort should be made in the collection of subscriptions for this good work. (Cheers.)

The PRESIDENT (as chairman of the committee) stated that 600 circulars had been sent to the laity soliciting support, and nothing had come back.

The Rev. J. BARNIER endorsed Mr. Collins' remarks that if the members of the Church of England did not take full advantage of the privileges afforded by the existing Act, they would lose those advantages altogether.

The Rev. T. B. TRESS thought that, as there were thousands who never gave anything to support the work of the Church, a systematic effort should be made to draw out pecuniary support in this work. There was a great want of classrooms in connection with the Public schools, and which prevented religious instruction being given more frequently and conveniently. There was also a want of organization in the parishes to secure the effectual carrying out of this work.

Mr. UTHER said that in the neighbouring colony of Victoria it was notorious that one of the principal reasons which led to the passing of the present Education Act in Victoria was the failure of the Churches to take advantage of the privileges they were afforded under the previous Education Act. In the diocese of Melbourne they would at the present moment be glad of the privileges that we enjoyed in this colony under our present Public Instruction Act. (Hear, hear).

The Rev. J. F. MORAN was certain that if the the clergy would awake to their proper responsibilities in this matter a great and good work would be done in the Public schools. He attributed the increase of larrikinism to the decrease of religious instruction in schools.

The Rev. A. W. PAIN anticipated a great deal of good from this discussion. If there had been any despondency in regard to this report it was because there had not been shown that amount of outside interest that was anticipated. (Hear, hear.) The committee had done their work, and would have been glad to have availed themselves of salaried teachers in the performance of this work, but they had not been able to act upon that idea because they did not have the salary. It had been said that men of brains could not be found to perform this work for the remuneration offered; and, in reference to that, he desired to mention an instance in the district of Camden. Mr. Latty had been engaged giving religious instruction to 200 children in the rural Deanery of Camden; had maintained his own horse; spent nine hours a day in his work, and rode 116 miles a week in the performance of that work, and all this for £65 per annum. (Hear, hear.) He did not think, however, that Mr. Latty could be asked to continue to perform that work for £65 a year. (Hear, hear.) It had been shown that under the present Public Instruction Act religious instruction could be given in the Public schools, and he hoped that it would be given more largely in the future than in the past. (Hear, hear.) He recommended the employment of young men now engaged in Sunday-school duties, who might be induced to take up this work as their business in life, not to supersede but to supplement the labours of the clergy in connection with the Public schools.

Mr. H. S. BOND moved, as an amendment, that the resolution of which he had given notice should be added to the motion, viz.:—"That as Denominational schools decrease in number, it is hoped that the clergy and laity will give more attention to the religious education of the young than when both Denominational and Public schools had to be attended."

It was suggested that the addendum close at the word attended, and the suggestion was adopted.

The Rev. R. E. KEMP seconded the amendment. He pointed out that in some of the parishes it was absolutely impossible for the whole of the Public schools to be visited by the clergyman of each district. In one parish, for instance, there were 18 schools, and the clergyman of that parish could only visit two each week. He observed that in nearly all the parishes instruction was given in the Public schools and in those parishes where such instruction was not given the reason was that the schools were too numerous or the parish too large.

The Rev. J. W. DEBENHAM hoped that some authoritative decision should be given on the subject of class-rooms. It had already been publicly stated that the clergyman of the Broughton Creek district had been refused permission to instruct the children in the Public school in his district, and the Minister had been appealed to in vain. He (Mr. Debenham) had had a similar experience, and in other parishes the greatest difficulty existed because there were no separate class-rooms in which the children could be taken to receive religious instruction.

The Rev. Mr. PAIN explained that where there was no class-room in the school, and there was a neighbouring building—such as a church—available, the department permitted the withdrawal of the children to that building for temporary religious instruction.

Mr. T. J. JACQUES pointed out that in one respect the report was liable to misinterpretation. Although there were 82 schools in which Church of England clergymen did not give religious instruction, the Legislature should not suppose that those schools were altogether without religious instruction.

Mr. W. A. BRODRIBB strongly urged upon the Synod to take active steps to raise funds. He believed that if a special personal effort were made, hundreds of pounds would promptly be obtained. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. W. J. FOSTER supported Mr. Brodribb's suggestion.

The Rev. Mr. HOUGH suggested that a paid canvasser should be employed to secure subscriptions.

The PRESIDENT said that if funds were not forthcoming the work of the committee would speedily have to cease. He thought that good work might be done by the employment of paid agents. He knew of two young men quite eligible for the duties, one of whom had had some little training in a Public school already. What the promoters really did want was funds, and in some way they must apply to the laity of the Church. With regard to the advantages that were said to arise from religious instruction in Public schools, he had the testimony of the master of the Sussex-street Public school, that since religious instruction had been given in that school the most marked improvement in the school had taken place. The question of class-rooms was a most important one. He did not know how religious instruction was to be given unless something was done to provide class-rooms. Even at Fort-street the want of accommodation was most seriously felt, and the same, he supposed, was the case with some other large schools in or about Sydney. With regard to the country districts the same difficulty presented itself. The clergymen in those districts could not always attend to the schools, which were scattered over large tracts of country. He hoped that the discussion would be productive of good, and that the result would be a larger amount of pecuniary support, which would enable the committee to employ catechists, and enlist such aid as would enable them to carry on their business more effectively. (Hear, hear.)

Archdeacon KING stated that, although a clergyman might visit a school once a week, every child might not receive religious instruction more than once in three weeks.

The Rev. Mr. SHARP having replied and intimated his intention of accepting the amendment, the motion was unanimously agreed to in its amended form.

CHURCH RITUAL.

Mr. H. S. S. BOND moved,—"That our cathedral should be a pattern to all churches, especially in the exact observance of the rubric of our Prayer Book; and although the Australian Church may not be bound to obey the canons of Canterbury, England, of the year 1603, it is desirable that in our Cathedral the 82nd canon should be observed as to the setting up of the Ten Commandments on the east end of every church and chapel, where the people may best see and read the same, and other chosen sentences written upon the walls of the said churches and chapels in places convenient."

Mr. COLLINS seconded the motion.

After some discussion attention was called to the fact that there was not a quorum present, and the Synod adjourned at 10.40 p.m. till 3.30 p.m. to-day.

The St. James's Gazette records a remarkable feat recently performed by a band of brigands in Macedonia, close to the town of Casteria. A weekly fair is held at Kroumisti, on the Lake of Casteria, and on the 8th of March the lake was in consequence crowded with boats carrying peasants to the fair from the neighbouring villages. A band of brigands, about fifteen in number, lay in ambush on the south side of the lake, and waylaid every boat that passed. All the peasants, and even the boatmen, to the number of 200 persons, were seized by the brigands and dragged up the neighbouring mountain. Two Mussulmans and a Christian on horseback, who refused to surrender and tried to gallop off, were fired on—the Mussulmans being killed, and the Christian wounded. On reaching the plateau of Brikion, at some distance up the mountain, the brigands "weeded out" their captives—retaining seven Jews, two Turks, and a Christian, as hostages, and setting the others at liberty. For these ten hostages the brigands demand a ransom of £2000; and in the meantime, according to latest accounts, a number of regular and irregular troops, dispatched by the authorities, are in pursuit of the robbers.

EXPORTS.—June 27.

Star of the Sea, for San Francisco: 1920 tons coal.

Venus, for Rockhampton and Maryborough, via Newcastle: 5 kegs blasting powder, 13 cases sporting powder, 5 cases dynamite.

Custom House.—Entered Outwards, June 27: Katoomba (s.), 489 tons, Captain T. A. Lake, for Brisbane and Northern ports; Hero (s.), 851 tons, Captain T. M'Gee, for Auckland and New Zealand ports; Barrabool (s.), 588 tons, Captain C. Ashford, for Melbourne, via Newcastle.

The Wakatipu (s.) left Wellington at 3 p.m. on the 22nd, and passed Steven's Island at 10 p.m. Experienced light northerly winds until 24th, when the wind veered round to south west and blew strong, accompanied by a heavy sea. This lasted till Sunday 26th, and was succeeded by fine weather to arrival. Passed in through Sydney Heads at 7 p.m. on the 27th, and reached Smith's Wharf at 7.30 p.m.

The Richmond (s.) left the Clarence Heads on June 26, and entered Sydney Heads on June 27, at 7 p.m. Had southerly and easterly winds all the passage. Cargo: 1800 bags maize.

The Hero (s.) left Melbourne on the afternoon of the 24th June. Had light winds on the passage, and arrived here early on the morning of the 27th. The Hero (s.) leaves to-day for New Zealand.

The Manly (s.) left the moorings at Bellinger River at 8 a.m. on the 26th instant. While crossing the bar a heavy sea struck the vessel, and washed away the galley, longboat, and portion of the bulwarks. Passed Port Macquarie at 6.30 p.m., and entered Sydney Heads on 27th. Experienced fresh S.W. winds to Seal Rocks, light S.E. winds and heavy swell from thence to arrival. She brings the following cargo:—700 bags maize, 20 cases sundries, 6 hides, 2 coops fowls.

The barque Stag left Kiapara on June 18, with a light N.E. wind, which lasted till the 20th, when a fresh N.W. gale commenced and blew for twenty-four hours; then a southerly wind followed and increased to a gale, with a very high sea. This continued till sighting Newcastle light, on the morning of the 26th; from thence had light winds along the coast. During the last two days a strong current was experienced setting to the northward. On the night of the 25th sighted a barque, supposed to be the William Bassett, bound to New Zealand. The Gazelle, barque, was loading at Kiapara, for Sydney, when the Stag sailed.

The Clyde, which arrived last week with Government immigrants, has got clear of her passengers with more than the usual rapidity, as only about a dozen people now remain on board. The vessel will come up to the Australian Wharf to discharge cargo about Thursday next.

The Cheviot (s) passed Sydney Heads, bound north, at 11 a.m., yesterday.

A full-rigged ship passed Twofold Bay, bound north, at 9.30 a.m. yesterday.

The You Yangs (s.) passed Seal Rocks, bound south, at 6.40 p.m. yesterday.

A large iron barque passed Bellinger Heads, bound south, at 5 p.m. yesterday.

The Harvard, barque, from New York, arrived at Melbourne yesterday.

The Sorata (s.) left Hobson's Bay at 1.10 p.m., and cleared Port Phillip Heads at 4 p.m., yesterday, for Sydney.

The Cuzco (s.) left Adelaide at 6.35 p.m. yesterday, for Melbourne.

The Garonne (s.) sailed from Plymouth on the 25th instant, with 309 passengers and a full cargo, for Australia.

The Claymore, barque, from Newcastle, while in tow at Port Adelaide on the 20th instant, came into collision with the Italy, barque, whose bulwark planking and stanchions were much damaged. The Claymore's anchor stock was broken, and other damage done to her head-gear.

During the last four years (says the Hawke's Bay Herald) the Union Steamship Company have lost three vessels, the names of which all began with T—the Taupo, Taranaki, and the Tararua. Each vessel met with an accident before its final wreck. The Taranaki was sunk in Tory Channel, and was raised again, to be finally wrecked near Tauranga. The Taupo shortly before its wreck struck upon a rock, and had a marvellously narrow escape from destruction. It will be remembered that the shock was mistaken for the effects of an earthquake, and it was not until the vessel was docked that it was seen how near to destruction it had been. Recently £5000 worth of gold was stolen from the Tararua, and all the officers and crew were discharged in consequence.

N. S. W. Funded Stock wanted at 100; and N. S. W. Debentures, due 1902, were sold at 116⅞.

Messrs. T. J. Thompson and Son report the yield of the Queen's Birthday mine, Dunolly, to be 571 ounces gold from 920 tons of stone crushed.

In the Import markets the business of the day was of little moment, and merchandise generally is unchanged in value. Flour is quoted at up to £12 10s. for Adelaide, and to £12 for New South Wales brands; wheat selling at 5s. for best samples. Dried fruits are in demand, and business in elemes and sultanas, to arrive, at from 8½d. to 9d. is noted. Sales of coarse salt are reported at 85s. and 87s. 6d. In fish, advices of a somewhat firmer market in California have a tendency to strengthen the price of tinned salmon, but the demand is limited, and no business reported. Kensett oysters selling at 7s.; Star lobsters at 8s.; kippered herrings quoted at 10s. 6d., and haddocks at 11s.; Compton's hams were sold at 1s. 1½d. A fair inquiry is noted for imported milk, Nestle's selling at 7s., Dairymaid at 7s. 8d. No. 1 Manila cigars were quitted at 65s. In liquors, we hear of the quittance of large lines of Hennessy's single star and three star brandy, to arrive, at 36s. and 48s. respectively; a good parcel of Hennessy's pale on the spot was placed at 12s.; geneva dull of sale. Malt is neglected; a good sample, to arrive, was placed at 8s.; inferior samples on the spot selling at a lower figure. In metals, we hear of the quittance of 500 cases of tin plates, at late quotations. An assorted parcel of Braby's galvanized iron was placed at £23 15s.; and trade sales of Stork and other brands were made at current quotations, the market being steady. Sheet lead, assorted parcels, quitted at £20. Some 150 kegs of United Rhenish Westphalian blasting powder changed hands at a price withheld. In drugs, cream of tartar, in jars, had business at 1s. 6d., and tartaric acid at 2s. Business about the wharfs this morning was rather unsettled. Since Saturday upwards of 600 bales of hay have arrived, and consequently the value of that produce has declined. Best lucerne hay is only worth £3 5s.; other sorts, from £2 10s. to £3. Maize is very scarce. There is a good demand, and the corn is firm at 3s. Circular Head potatoes, [illegible] 15s. to £5; Warrnambool ditto, £4 5s. to £4 10s.; onions, £9 to £10 10s.; pickling ditto, £12 to £14; eggs, 1s. 3d.; butter, 1s. to 1s. 3d.; cheese, 5d. to 7d.; bacon, 5d. to 6d.; hams, 6d. to 8d.; fowls, 2s. 9d. to 3s. 3d.; ducks, 3s. 6d. to 4s.; geese, 5s. 6d. to 6s.; turkeys, 6s. to 10s.; honey, garden, 4d. to 5d.; ditto, bush, 2½d. to 4d.; lard, 4½d. to 5d.; beeswax, 9d. to 9½d.

At the Homebush fat stock sales, to-day, 1000 fat cattle were yarded, including a fair proportion of good beasts. The best lot of bullocks averaged £4 17s. 5d., several others brought from £4 5s. upwards, and inferior from £3 6s. 5d.; cows in proportion, the prices being equivalent to 18s. 6d. to 14s. per 100 lbs. for prime beef, and from 9s. for inferior. 3030 sheep were penned, and an advance in prices of 1s. per head took place, owing to the smallness of the supply. The best lot of crossbred wethers averaged 11s. 6d., merino wethers from 8s. 9d.

Messrs. J. Lazarus and Co. report having sold, privately and at auction, a catalogue of leather at the following prices:—Sole, 9d. to 9½d.; kip, 12½d. to 15½d.; calf, 24d.; cow tweed, 18d.; calf ditto, 24d. to 26d.; harness, 13d. to 14d.; bag, 10s. 6d. to 11s. 3d.; bridle, 10s. 9d. to 11s. 6d.; strap, 11s. to 11s. 3d.; basils, 15s.; black harness, 14d. to 14½d.

The fitting up of the Orient steam vessels with refrigerators is now rendering possible the introduction of such delicacies as English fresh salmon, soles, turbot, and cod; and Messrs. Nelson and Hewlett, who have a consignment coming forward by the Cuzco, will offer the fish at auction on board that vessel on Monday next.

The growth of the Anglo-Australian steam shipping trade is becoming more marked almost every month as, one after another, new steamship arrives with passengers or cargo. Besides the magnificent vessels of the P. and O. and Orient Companies, which convey so large a number of people to and from our shores, the pioneer boats of two other lines have already appeared in our waters—vessels intended chiefly for the cargo trade, as well as occasional steamboats. Taking up a late number of the Times, we see on the berth for Australia the Huntingdon, 2258 tons, and the Cascapedia, 3000 tons—two new steamships of the Colonial Line, whose steamfleet has been first represented here by the Sikh and the Afghan. Then among the vessels of Messrs. Houlder, Brothers' line, of which the Delcomyn has visited Sydney, are the Catania (new), 3500 tons; the Malaga, 2200 tons; the Sorrento (new), 3800 tons; the Marsala (new), 3800 tons; the Urmston Grange (new), 4500 tons; and the Ovingdean Grange (new), 4500 tons, the Barcelona having already sailed. This line of vessels begin the outward voyage from Hamburg and Antwerp, call at London, and deliver cargo at Adelaide, Melbourne, and Sydney. The tendency of this enlarged steam fleet engaged in the Australian trade will be to ensure greater regularity in the operations of trade. Any extra price paid for freight is more than compensated for by the saving of time in delivery of all the more valuable goods which are now conveyed from England to Australia in steamships. The cargoes of sailing vessels are mostly composed of heavy and comparatively cheap goods, and it is less common to see a ship arriving with a cargo valued at £50,000 than it was three or four years ago to see the same vessel bringing merchandise worth £80,000 to £100,000.

The Ocean (s.), now in quarantine, has a cargo of rice, oil, and other Eastern produce for Sydney, besides a quantity of colonial produce from Townsville.

The following is a return of tin ore received at Newcastle and Morpeth during the week ended 18th June:—From Tamworth, 55 tons 6 cwt. 3 qrs.

The Customs duties received to-day were as follows:—Spirits, £1573 12s. 4d.; wine (still), £122 12s. 6d.; wine (sparkling), £2; ale, porter, and beer (in wood), £31 5s.; cigars, £33 15s.; tea, £162 6s. 3d.; sugar (unrefined), £132 8s. 5d.; opium, £72 18s. 9d.; rice, £1 9s. 3d.; dried fruits, £9 1s. 4d.; nuts, £5 6s. 1d.; specific duty, £400 13s.; pilotage, £64 17s. 8d.; harbour and light dues, £30 5s. 4d.: total, £2642 10s. 11d.

LATEST COMMERCIAL TELEGRAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, Monday.

There is nothing doing in breadstuffs.

A Mauritius telegram of the 17th of June states that the new crop is expected to be late, and there will probably be about an average of only one departure and one engagement for Melbourne. Owing to these advices, importers ask 20s. advance. A large business is pending.

STOCK SALES.

Messrs. Brunker and Wolfe report: Over 1000 head of cattle yarded to-day at Homebush; and they sold on account of J. F. Egan, Esq., Mount Harris station, 153 bullocks at £4 1s. to £5 13s., averaging £4 16s.; on account of Thos. Egan, Esq., 48 bullocks at £3 18s. to £5 3s. (both lots by road). Also on account of Messrs. J. F. and H. White, 728 fat ewes (merinos), at 10s. 1d. to 10s. 10d., from their Bando station, Liverpool Plains.—[Adv.]

THE MAILS.

Mails will be made up at the General Post Office, for the undermentioned places, as follows:—

The Sydney Morning Herald.

TUESDAY, JUNE 28, 1881.

Whether the Local Government Bill will be introduced during the coming session in exactly the shape in which it made its appearance last session or not, it may be expected that a Local Government Bill of some kind will be laid before Parliament. This is one of the subjects which Government will not be allowed to shelve very much longer. As the population of the country gets larger the demand for self-control will get stronger, and local control must mean local taxation. The necessity for insisting on the connection between the two is not always recognised in practice although it is seldom denied in theory. One of the objections urged against the Government bill of last session was that it imposed too much upon municipal bodies and offered them too little. There are members of Parliament to whom improved municipal legislation means an Act which will make more liberal grants from the general Treasury than those which are now bestowed. If local bodies are to be made useful and strong, it is said they must be more liberally endowed. For another thing, it has been contended they must be made independent of central control. One of the objections urged against the bill introduced by the Premier was that it sought to establish a dual system of management consisting of a local Council in the country under the supervision of a central Council in the metropolis. How, it was asked, could a hybrid system of this kind be denominated one of local government? The notion of those who urged this objection was that the central Government should contribute half the funds necessary for the working of local bodies without having any voice in their expenditure. The bill which the Government may introduce will be met by a multitude of objections of this order, and any measure that may find its way through Parliament will have to be regarded pretty much in the light of an experiment. Institutions of this kind are not made, they grow. The French system of local government, like almost every other system of government in France, is a work of art, while the English system may be said to be one of nature. The former is, no doubt, the more complete of the two; but faultless as it may be in theory it would be ill suited to the genius of the English people.

The defects of the English system of local government have been furnishing material for the criticism of ardent reformers for many years past. When Mr. Gladstone was last in power a scheme of reform was projected, and if the Liberals had not been forced to give place to the Tories in 1874 it is probable that in framing the measures which have lately been introduced into these colonies, our colonial statesmen would have been able to profit more largely from the experience of the mother country. The energies of the Beaconsfield Government during their six years term of office were devoted almost exclusively to foreign affairs. So far as they interfered with local government at all they did so to weaken it, and to make the necessity for fresh legislation more imperative. Under their rule, works which had been managed by local bodies had been taken in hand by the central Government. Large sums of money were granted to the county authorities, who in their turn gave the Government their enthusiastic support. The strongholds of the Tories have always been the counties, and it is in the counties that the local government authorities have their chief centres. The ruling bodies in the English system of local government, are the Local Government Board in London, and the county magistrates assembled in quarter sessions. When the Tories were charged last year with having been more extravagant than their rivals, one of their replies was that they had paid larger sums out of the general Treasury for local purposes, especially for those of education. In this way the effect of the Conservative régime was to increase the evil of centralization, and in that measure to paralyse local self-help. The task of saying where in a system of local government the local authorities should begin, and where the central authorities should stop, although it has not given much trouble of late years in America, has been found a most difficult one in England; and it will probably turn out to be an equally difficult one in Australia. In the mother country also, the temptation to subsidize local bodies for political ends has been found to be almost irresistible; and such temptations are as strong in the new world as in the old. The country at large has sometimes to pay dearly for the class prejudices or the local leanings of its political chiefs. If roads and bridges, hospitals, and asylums are, under the proposed system of local government, to be managed by local bodies, and paid for out of the general Treasury as we have been led to anticipate, there will be large opportunities for converting local institutions into political engines.

A few weeks ago an English contemporary formulated some of the anomalies which exist under the present system of local government in the United Kingdom, and a statement of one or two of the points referred to will be of interest at the present juncture. Some of the drawbacks of the English system are, of course, the result of circumstances which are peculiar to the United Kingdom, but others are as likely to present themselves in a new country as in an old one. We have referred to the difficulty of drawing the line between what belongs to the local taxpayer and the general taxpayer. A more difficult matter is that of laying on each local taxpayer his equitable share of the public burdens. In England the taxing body generally consists of the owners of land, and it is but human nature that landowners should shift as many burdens as possible from their own shoulders to those of their tenants. "Country gentlemen are in the habit of coming forward with singular naïveté and demanding a Treasury subvention in order to relieve the suffering farmer. They forget that every improvement of the tenant farmer's position, from whatever source it has been derived, has invariably meant increased rents. When the farmer suffers they ask the taxpayer—the labour of the country—to relieve him. The Scotch system of compelling the farmer to pay one half of the rates is an improvement on our method." Another anomaly referred to by our contemporary grows out of the unequal burdens which are placed upon real and personal property. Mr. Gladstone has declared that "Parliament should examine upon a large scale what is the best method of giving real property that aid which it was once accustomed to receive from personal property." It is a mistake to suppose that personalty ("stock") was not originally liable to the same kind of taxation, or to taxation for the same purposes, as realty. Present owners, however, have succeeded by purchase or inheritance to property with certain burdens upon it, and no more, and it would be contrary to all the principles of just policy to make them the objects of a sudden and boundless spoliation. One of the most important questions of the day is how to arrive at the proper method of "an adjustment of the balance between real and personal property." The non-representative character of the system of local government that exists in England, the confusion of the areas known as the parish, the union, and the counties, and so far as local government is concerned, the difference both of law and administration between the different parts of the United Kingdom, are all sources of evils which remain to be grappled with by some bold and ingenious statesman. The evils which present themselves here may be of another class, but in this colony, as well as in England, the subject is one of great interest, and in both countries it is one that hardly admits of delay.

The reform of the Legislative Council in Victoria having, after three years' agitation, been achieved, and the country apparently being reasonably contented with the change effected, it is interesting to note exactly what the nature of the change is, and what has been the difficulty in securing it. It would appear that if the Radical party had, in the first instance, asked for what has now been obtained, there would have been little difficulty in substantially getting it. The difficulty has all arisen in asking for something that has not been obtained, and that does not appear to be in harmony with the interests or the wishes of the people at large. For fully two years Mr. Berry set himself to secure the practical destruction of the Council as a legislative body, openly avowing his preference for a single chamber. In that object of his ambition he has failed, and has succeeded in making the Legislative Council stronger than ever. It may not, perhaps, be so conservative a body as before, but it will undoubtedly be in a better position to say "No" to the Assembly. The electors generally seem to have a preference for two chambers, and have no preference whatever for nomineeism. In both of these respects Mr. Berry has been at issue with the popular sentiment. The general drift of public opinion has evidently been in favour of the settlement which has been brought about, namely, to keep a second chamber, and to keep it elective, but to widen its basis and make it more popular. Whether this popular preference embodies a sound political philosophy or not is a matter on which constitutional theorists may speculate; but there does not seem much reason for doubting the fact that it is the popular opinion. The people have not wished to destroy the second Chamber, or even to rob it of influence. What they have asked for is that they may have some interest in it, and some influence over it. They desire to see some control exercised over the Legislative Assembly, but yet not by a power which they themselves cannot influence.

Against a constitution of this sort Mr. Berry has frequently protested, as likely to create two antagonistic chambers of nearly equal power. It has been argued that a deadlock would be a still graver thing between two such chambers than it ever has been in past days. But if this idea is seriously entertained, Mr. Berry should have favoured some of those schemes for the co-dissolution of both Houses or for a joint sitting, which have been submitted as remedies for deadlocks. Mr. Service did propose such remedies, but Mr. Berry set himself against them, and it may well be asked in what way a new constitution, without any provision for deadlocks, is better than one with such provision, especially seeing that the reform was due to the alleged necessity for preventing or overcoming such deadlocks.

There are, however, two considerations which may reconcile us to the absence of any formal provision in the constitution for settling quarrels between the two Houses. The first is that, as the Council will become increasingly popular, it will probably become less divergent in tone and temper from the Assembly than before. Every man who is so fairly circumstanced as to rent a house at ten shillings a week can get on to the electoral roll. Below that line there will be, for the most part, only the unsettled and the unthrifty part of the population. All the truly liberal and really progressive section of the population will find a representative [illegible] in the Council, which will, therefore [illegible] represent merely the wealthy section of the community. A second consideration is that if the two Houses should happen to differ in opinion, the mere fact that the Council has greater strength will, of itself, operate to [illegible] a deadlock, because it will enforce on the Assembly more modesty. The Lower House has been tempted to show fight unnecessarily, simply because it thought it could hector and bully successfully; but when it feels instinctively that such airs are out of place, it will not commit itself to any false attitudes. When a nominee Council or a plutocratic Council opposes the will of the Assembly, the insulting question is always asked, "Who are you that you should set yourself against the people's representatives?" But that question cannot be asked of men who are chosen by large constituencies in which every ratepayer has a vote who is sufficiently well off to live in a house worth twenty-five pounds a year. Men who get returned for little boroughs may really owe their election to the patronage of the big man of a little town, or to some public-house caucus, or some ecclesiastical or political organization. But men who represent large constituencies, in which are included all the settled people of the district, cannot be laughed at as non-representative, and can smile at the question "Who are you?" when propounded by the member of a "one-horse" constituency. The new Legislative Council, therefore, is not so likely to be irritated and goaded into opposition. Its broader constitution will save it from that fate; its power and authority will grow out of the popular vote by which it is constituted; and though it will be more liberal, it will, in one sense, be more conservative, because it will be stronger to resent and resist revolutionary attacks. For this reason, the reform as now carried is much more likely to lead to moderate legislation and to harmony between the two Houses, than either of the previous Reform Bills which Mr. BERRY proposed. The colony has chosen wisely as between the various offers submitted to it; and it has been demonstrated that to secure a reasonable reform of the constitution there was no necessity whatever to appeal to England for an overruling exercise of the Imperial authority. The self-governing powers of the colony were ample for all purposes. All that was needed was that they should be wisely guided. The failure originated in their not being wisely guided. Mr. BERRY wished to proceed with a revolutionary degree of violence and imprudence. In this the Council withstood him. But the Council has not opposed itself to a salutary reform; and there is evidence that that reform as now carried out satisfies the wishes of a very large majority of the people. The present temper of the public mind is, in the main, a vindication of the Council's resistance, for that resistance has resulted in bringing about an alteration of the constitution which is far more likely to be satisfactory than any of the more violent alterations which have been suggested.

Although the Earl of BEACONSFIELD is dead, his policy survives; and Mr. GLADSTONE is forced to feel that his own liberty of action is, to a large extent, curtailed by the extent to which the Government was committed during his rival's long lease of power. He did not recover possession of the Eastern Question in the same state as that in which it was when it slipped from his hands. Things had been done during the interval which could not be undone, and the inexorable logic of facts is more than a match for any theories or prepossessions. The Government of a great country like England is a continuous administration, although the parties that govern may vary, and the good faith of the country has to be kept, notwithstanding domestic changes of politics. So far as the retirement from Cabul and Candahar was concerned, Mr. GLADSTONE'S hands were free, because there are no conventions to control him, although in neither case has he been able to withdraw the Anglo-Indian force within the limits of its old lines. But in the Mediterranean and in Asia Minor it is impossible to go back to the status quo. The cession of Cyprus cannot be so easily undone. It is true that Mr. GLADSTONE was a party to the surrender of the Ionian Islands, over which England had acquired a protectorate. But then that was giving up Greek islands to Greece, and to a country that had a constitution and self-government. Handing back Cyprus to Turkey is a different thing. Mr. GLADSTONE would be glad to get rid of it, but he cannot see his way to restoring it to Turkish misrule. But if British government is better than Turkish government, there is so far an argument in favour of the convention respecting Asia Minor, because the quasi-protectorate which that convention established gave the British Government the right to insist on reforms, in other words, the right to a certain extent to govern through the Sultan. This right Mr. GLADSTONE is trying to use. Whether he will be able to do much good with it is a doubtful problem, for the Turk is stubborn and apathetic. A non-fulfilment of the conditions on the part of the Sultan would, of course, establish a right to cancel the whole convention; but that would simply be to establish undiluted Turkish misrule, and perhaps to provoke and justify another Russian invasion. And, therefore, Mr. GLADSTONE, though he does not like the convention, does like the opportunity it gives him of insisting on improvements in the Turkish Government.

The Dean of SYDNEY, as President of the Diocesan Synod, had some very strong things to say in his inaugural address against the increasing "desire and expectation to be married in private," and in favour of marriage at church, except in special cases under sanction of the BISHOP. The Synod of the Church of England can regulate its own ecclesiastical procedure and ritual for the observance of its own members according to its own pleasure. Nobody outside will claim to interfere, not even the State, so long as the civil contract of marriage is duly executed according to the provisions of the law. The DEAN may be right in saying—"I know that very serious injury to morality and social order has arisen in past years from the special facilities which then existed for contracting such marriages, the speedy fruits of which were, in very many instances, abandonment, poverty, shame, and moral ruin." Was that because the marriages were in private houses? So sweeping a charge should not be made without overwhelming evidence, and the DEAN gives none. In Scotland and among Presbyterians generally, as well as among some other denominations, marriage at home is the rule, and at church the exception. It is pure assumption, and not particularly courteous or charitable, to say of the former, "The great solemnity and the holy purposes of matrimony are too commonly forgotten, and it is very often contracted hurriedly, rashly, and foolishly." Many marriages undoubtedly are so contracted, and their results afford some ground for Dr. JOHNSON'S declaration that half the marriages in England would turn out happier if they were contracted by the Lord Chancellor without the parties ever having previously known each other. But the DEAN himself will not contend that all the holy and happy marriages are solemnized at church, and we doubt whether he will vindicate the smaller premise that a larger proportion of home than of church marriages turn out unhappily. It is unsafe to generalize on such a subject, for it is one in respect to which "every man is a law unto himself." To some men nothing is sacred, and no extraneous ceremonies can impart sanctity. The prevailing and increasing desire for marriage in private may mean merely a desire to avoid an ostentatious parade through the streets, the display of a costly wedding costume, and the scrutinizing gaze of a crowd of spectators at church.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

AFTER the wearisome negotiations over the Turco-Greek frontier dispute, it must be a source of relief to the European Powers to find that what may be regarded as the last act of the drama has commenced. The evacuation of the ceded territory by Turkish troops has actually begun, and it is understood that similar movements of troops from other places will follow. Our cablegrams of this morning also announce risings of native tribes at two of the Tunisian townships against the French and other foreigners, and these risings are reported to be assuming considerable dimensions. A terrible railway accident, resulting in the immediate death of 200 persons, is reported from Mexico.

THE R.M.S. City of Sydney, with the incoming English mails via San Francisco, left Auckland at an early hour yesterday morning, and may be expected in Port Jackson on Friday evening.

TO-DAY is the forty-third anniversary of the coronation of her Majesty Queen Victoria.

DURING the recent Ministerial tour in the Northern districts, and while the Ministers were at Glen Innes, the Hon. John Lackey, Minister for Public Works, delivered a speech which contained some valuable and interesting information respecting our railways, and which will be found in another column fully reported. Judging from the information given in the speech as to the progress we are making with our railway extensions and their working, that progress may be regarded as very satisfactory.

WE are informed that yesterday afternoon the committee of the City Railway Extension Movement, appointed at the meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce on the 10th instant, held its first meeting, to consider the necessary steps to be taken to secure a large and influential deputation to wait upon Mr. Lackey, the Minister of Public Works. The following gentlemen were present:—The Hon. J. B. Watt, M.L.C., and Messrs. Alexander Stuart, M.L.A., John Young, T. Robertson, Robert Jones, W. M'Millan, F. Martin, M.L.A., Dr. Belgrave, Angus Cameron, M.L.A., W. H. Pigott, M.L.A., and W. T. Poole, M.L.A. Apologies were received from Messrs. G. H. Reid, M.L.A., S. A. Joseph, and Dr. Renwick, M.L.A. After considerable discussion it was determined that in order not to hamper in any way the action of the Government, no specific route should be urged; but that the Minister should be acquainted with the general resolution passed almost unanimously at the previous meeting, that it was desirable that the railway should be extended into the city in such a way as to combine in the most feasible and economical manner both the goods and the passenger traffic. A sub-committee was appointed to issue circulars and to make arrangements for further proceedings. It is expected that the deputation will interview the Minister on or about Friday, 8th proximo.

DR. HODSON has vaccinated about 260 policemen, in addition to some of the inspectors, who have shown a good example to those under their direction. A very interesting case has come under the notice of Dr. Hodson. It is that of a constable who had previously been vaccinated, and had had the small-pox, as was proved by the pock marks which he bore. He was one of those who were recently re-vaccinated, and, contrary to expectation, the lymph "took." The opinion prevails among a number of medical men and others that no man can take small-pox the second time, but it is clear that if the constable in question had not been re-vaccinated he might have had a second attack of the disease. Another thing has been noticed as being unusual. No less than 90 per cent. of the policemen operated upon became innoculated with the lymph. This circumstance, coupled with that of the policeman mentioned above, would seem to indicate that there is some peculiarity in the atmosphere which renders a large proportion of the citizens susceptible to diseases of the small-pox type.

THE final meeting of the New South Wales Commission to the Melbourne International Exhibition took place at the Free Public Library yesterday. The Hon. Captain Onslow occupied the chair, and a large number of members were present. Reports from the Executive Commissioner to the Commission, and from the Commission to the Governor, were read and adopted. In bringing their labours to a close, the members of the Commission resolved, in their own names, to present to Dr. Renwick a gold medal as a memento of the gratification they experienced in having had him as their Executive Commissioner. Particulars of the meeting will be found in another column.

THE attention of the Synod was occupied yesterday in a discussion upon the report of the Committee on Religious Instruction in State schools. It was stated that the movement had been indifferently supported hitherto, and better pecuniary support was earnestly enlisted for the future.

SIGNOR SIMONETTI has just completed his clay model of "Labour," the first of the triad of freestone statues which will decorate the niches in the Government offices at the corner of Bridge-street and Phillip-street; and if its two companions, "Science" and "Art," equal "Labour" in excellence, the triad will excel even that of "Justice," "Wisdom," and "Mercy," at the Macquarie-street corner of the building. The statue is, like its predecessors, seven feet high; and as its niche is about 15 feet above the pavement, the proportions have been so arranged as to be correct when viewed from below. The design is a poetic one, original in character, and beautifully carried out, although not burdened with a multiplicity of details. A female figure of majestic development and commanding mein is shown resting for a moment from toil, that toil being—as shown by the broad axe she leans upon and the tree stump on which her left foot rests—the characteristic occupation of the vanguard of civilisation, the clearing of virgin land. The weight of the body is thrown upon the right foot, the noble head is set slightly back, and the superb figure is nude to the waist, and thence is indicated through drapery, which is caught by a stud over the left knee, and blown back in loose, lightly curving folds. The abstract idea of the conception is intelligible at a glance; the pose of the figure is particularly graceful, and the modelling very fine. Signor Simonetti will take a plaster cast of the model in a day or two, and then proceed to fashion it in stone.

LAST night a bazaar was opened in Wesley Church schoolroom, Chippendale, in aid of the Trust Fund of the Mount Lachlan Wesleyan Church. The goods made and collected by the ladies are, for the most part, of the useful class, suitable to the requirements of a family. These are varied by a sufficient number of ornamental articles to make the room look very attractive. A refreshment stall was also well patronized by the juveniles. In the centre of the room a number of choice photographs, supplemented by some select engravings and views of travel, made additionally attractive by the stereoscope and graphoscope, furnished a point of attraction to a large number of visitors. Some spears and other curiosities from New Britain found ready sale. There was a large gathering of visitors, and judging from appearances, we should think a good business was done. The bazaar will be open each day of the week until Friday from 3 in the afternoon to 10 at night. In addition to all that we have named, the choir of Wesley Church rendered very effectively some striking selections of sacred music.

THE new Temperance Hall was well filled last night, on the occasion of a lecture by the Rev. Canon M. B. Brownrigg on "Anglo-Israelism: is it a delusion or a Truth?" The Rev. W. Allwood, President of the Anglo-Israel Association of New South Wales, occupied the chair. The rev. lecturer expressed his pleasure in having the opportunity of advocating a system of Biblical interpretation which is rapidly gaining ground, the diligent examination of which would result in the conviction that Anglo-Israelism is indeed a truth, and no delusion; and deprecated the conduct of those who, while they assail it as a delusion, quietly shelve what is advanced in its support. Anglo-Israelism is not a new religion, is not a substitute for the Gospel, is not antagonistic to Jewish missions, nor a deceitful handling of the Word of God; but it is the identification of the British nation, the Anglo-Saxon race, with the kingdom of Israel, as distinguished from the kingdom of Judah—separated by the captivity of the Israelites to Assyria, and 133 years afterwards by the carrying away of the Jews to Babylon. The Jews have never been lost sight of, and continue to this day, while the Israelites have utterly disappeared, but, in fulfilment of prophecy, are ultimately to be united with the Jews. The rev. Canon proceeded to combat many of the objections on the ground of language, of religious rites, &c., quoting Sharon Turner, Bishop Butter, and others. The Anglo-Saxons, he argued, are the only people of whom it can be said that it has become a "multitude of nations," or that it possesses the "gates of her enemies." The lecture was received with marked attention, and a vote of thanks was awarded by acclamation to the rev. Canon for his interesting and valuable address.

A PUBLIC meeting was held at the Glebe Town-hall last evening for the purpose of considering the route to be taken by the proposed tramway. Mr. J. Carey occupied the chair. A resolution was proposed by Mr. Henry E. Maxted,—"That in the opinion of this meeting any deviation from the route of the proposed Glebe and Forest Lodge tramway at present defined by the Government is inexpedient." Mr. J. P. Walker seconded the resolution, which was spoken to at length by Mr. Percy Lucas and others. Alderman Elphinstone moved, as an amendment,—"That the route to Forest Lodge should not pass through Derwent-street to St. John's Road." Mr. D. Moses, J.P., seconded the amendment, which was supported by Alderman Chapman, Mr. R. Guy, J.P., Rev. Mr. Rickards, and other speakers. After considerable discussion the amendment was negatived, and the original motion carried.

THE third annual meeting of St. Stephen's Temperance Association was held in St. Stephen's Church, Phillip-street, last evening. A satisfactory report was presented showing that 55 new members had joined the society, bringing the total number up to 258. During the year fourteen meetings had been held, at six of which lectures were delivered. The finances were also shown to be in a satisfactory state.

THE immigrants by the Clyde, which arrived here from London on Thursday last, have left the ship. A large number, especially of the single girls, were met by their friends, who took charge of them. Yesterday the hiring of immigrants by the vessel took place—that of the single men and married couples at Fort Macquarie under the direction of Mr. Treatt, and that of the single girls at the Immigration Depot under the direction of Mrs. Hicks. The single girls for hire were only 10 in number, and their numerical proportion to that of the ladies who desired to engage them was as one to six, and the consequence was that, although none of them had been in service before, all were engaged, some at 8s. and others at 10s. a week. Two of the girls professed that they could do absolutely nothing, yet both found engagements, although not quite so readily as their associates. None of the girls are going to the country, each having entered into service in the city or suburbs.

OUR Merriwa correspondent reports by telegraph that a valuable testimonial of plate, with a beautifully-executed address, was presented to Mr. S. B. Bailey, J.P., at Gallagher's Assembly Room, on Saturday evening, on the eve of his departure from Merriwa. Mr. W. F. Parker made the presentation, and expressed the high opinion he entertained for Mr. Bailey, and considered him worthy of this token of esteem by the residents of Merriwa. The address, with fifty signatures, was read by Mr. A. W. Blaxland, J.P., and several other speakers endorsed the sentiments contained therein.

ON the question of miners' rights v. leases on the gold-fields, Mr. Warden De Boos thus delivered himself (as reported in the Braidwood Dispatch) at a banquet given in his honour at Braidwood. He said—"With reference to his dealings with men by virtue of their miners' rights, he wished to remark that ever since he had gone to Temora he had persistently set his face against leases. The consequence was that there had not been a single lease issued upon that gold-field, and there should not be, if he could help it, while he continued to be Warden there. All the claims were being worked under miners' rights, and this, he contended, was the only way in which a gold-field should be worked. If men took up a claim and failed to set to work upon it at the end of three days, they rendered themselves liable to be dispossessed of it, and others could jump it. This system put a stop to that monopoly of which there were such loud complaints, and which so retarded the opening up of new gold-fields, and so far as he was concerned, as long as the Mining Department continued to stick to him, he should ever set his face against leases."

A CORRESPONDENT complains of recklessness on the part of the guards on the Waverley tram line. Recently he was a passenger by one of the trams, and alighted at Regent-street. Immediately he did so the tram started, but as he saw a number of other passengers coming down the stairs, he signalled for the tram to stop, and that was done. Had not the tram stopped, there would, he states, have been an accident. The following evening, and at the same hour, our correspondent, with his daughters, was getting out of a car, but before he had time to do so, the tram started with him on the lower step. He was consequently carried another stage. Another instance is given showing haste on the part of the guard in starting the tram.

AT the Water Police Court, yesterday, seven persons were prosecuted for breaches of the by-laws of the Borough of Randwick, viz., neglecting to keep clean premises. In some cases the informations were withdrawn, on defendants paying Court and professional costs, and promising to abate the nuisances. The case against Isaac Bisgrove was proceeded with ex parte. The evidence showed that defendant allowed a cow-yard on his premises to be, and remain in, a filthy condition, so as to cause a nuisance to the neighbourhood. The Bench ordered the abatement of the nuisance in terms of the by-law relating to such offences. Mr. W. Roberts appeared as solicitor for the borough.

Two youths were pretty severely dealt with at the Newtown Police Court yesterday; and a few more examples of a similar kind would probably tend to prevent the commission of offences that are becoming too common. The bench was occupied by Mr. S. H. Terry and Dr. Tucker. John Kennedy, for committing a nuisance (by dancing and swearing) in a railway carriage, a few minutes after midnight on Saturday, the last train from Redfern, was fined £5, with the alternative of two months' imprisonment. Joseph Brown, for being in a state of intoxication in a railway carriage, on the same occasion, was fined £5, with the alternative of two months' imprisonment. The same defendant, for using obscene language in Crescent-street, Newtown, on his way to the Newtown lock-up, was fined 60s., with the alternative of two months' imprisonment; the sentence to be cumulative with the former sentence.

THE case against John Cocks, licensee of the European Hotel, Castlereagh-street, for causing the death of Peter Buckley, was resumed yesterday morning at the Water Police Court, before Messrs. Penfold and M'Lean. The witnesses examined were Nurses Reid and Reuter, of the Infirmary; William Aitken, warder at the same institution; and Senior-constable Smith. The evidence for the prosecution was concluded. Defendant, in reply to the usual question as to whether he had anything to say why he should not be committed for trial, said he was not guilty, and had witnesses to call. The case was then further adjourned till Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

WE learn from sub-inspector Johnson, of the Cumberland-street police station, that there is no truth in the statement that the poultry and birds which were left in the infected house recently occupied by Mrs. Guilford when the inmates were taken to quarantine, have been in any way neglected. Arrangements were made with a Mr. M'Elvine to feed and water them daily, and this work has been regularly attended to under the supervision of the constable acting as sentry over the premises. This duty will be carried out until the return of the family from quarantine, the whole of the property and effects left on the premises being under the charge of the police.

BALMAIN, like all other suburbs, possesses its plague of "larrikinism," and owing to the want of proper police protection, the nuisance is now becoming unbearable. Every Sunday a number of roughs of various ages, but with equal powers of abuse and vituperation, assemble on the beach at Peacock's Point, Johnson's Bay, and in Simmons's Paddock, Waterview Bay, and amuse themselves by using foul language and making targets of persons who may be passing the vicinity in boats. Last Sunday afternoon while two gentlemen were pulling round Peacock's Point, accompanied by several ladies, a couple of larrikins who were near the shore deliberately pulled out towards them, and without the least warning assaulted them with stones, one of which just missed the head of one of the pullers. A mob of boys on the beach encouraged the two worthies, and the language was so disgusting that the gentlemen referred to were only too glad to retreat in order to save their companions from further insult. Compared with the population, the number of police in Balmain is small, and the larrikins have become emboldened by the immunity they have experienced for years past.

THE youth James Jeffrey, who, while at work at a building at the corner of George and Goulburn streets, was struck upon the head by a falling stone, died at the Infirmary at 6 o'clock yesterday morning.

GEORGE HONEYWILL, an inmate of the Callan Park Hospital for the Insane, died shortly after 1 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, in consequence of a piece of meat becoming impacted in his windpipe. The piece of meat weighed three quarters of an ounce.

A MAN named Edward M'Keough, a baker, residing in May-street, was taken to the Infirmary yesterday afternoon, by a constable. One of M'Keough's legs was broken, and he stated that the injury was caused by his wife throwing him out of a window.

A YOUTH named Samuel Coleman, residing in Seymour-street, had his left arm crushed yesterday in consequence of being caught in some machinery at Harper's Mill, Duncan-street, where he was employed. He received attention at the Infirmary.

ABOUT 2 o'clock yesterday morning a stable and contents, belonging to Mr. Philip Delaney, a drayman, residing in Cowper-street, Glebe, were destroyed by fire. The stable, which was constructed of timber and was situated at the rear of Delaney's dwelling-house, contained two horses at the time the fire broke out; but the animals were rescued. The building was insured in the Industrial Mutual Company. The fire was extinguished by the manual engine of the local brigade. Some other engines also arrived on the spot.

THE Barwon Argus states that a gentleman in Brewarrina, tempted by the great bargains offered by the now notorious Rodanow Watch Company, forwarded an order for one of the incomparable timepieces, and the money with it. On hearing that the affair was a fraud, the party in question gave the money up for lost, and stood no little amount of chaff from his friends upon being "had." By last San Francisco mail the letter and contents were returned from the Boston post-office, marked "Fraudulent." Another gentleman was upon the point of sending for one of the best descriptions of these advertised frauds, but was persuaded to wait till the first-mentioned had received his watch, so as to prove whether the advertisement was a bona fide affair or not.

A CORRESPONDENT sends the Pleasant Creek News some interesting particulars concerning the deceased boy, Tommy Wing Hock, who was murdered at Haddon or Newtown a short time since:—"The melancholy circumstances connected with the very tragic death of poor little Tommy Wing Hock, the Chinese half-caste boy, who was so cruelly murdered at Newtown a few days ago, and the little fellow's previous history make the narrative of his short life a somewhat eventful if not a mournful one. I have gleaned the following facts concerning his life. When 12 months old he was purchased by his foster-father, Wing Hock, for the sum of £20, and by him given to a nurse, to whom he paid the sum of 12s. per week for three years for carefully looking after the little one, and at the end of that period he took the child himself. At that time Wing Hock was a large storekeeper at Maryborough, but subsequently failed in business. He then tried the cultivation of tobacco near St. Arnaud; but here, also, he met with reverses, and was obliged to give up tobacco-farming; and little Tommy, with his foster-father, left St. Arnaud last March, and proceeded to Dimboola and Horsham, and from the latter place to Deep Lead. Here Tommy and his second father remained a few days, the latter being an old friend of Lee Young. During his short stay in the camp Tommy had become quite a favourite, being a rather bright little fellow for his years; and those who have any knowledge of the Chinese will be aware of their great attachment to children, especially boys—for these they show a decided preference. From Deep Lead Tommy and his foster-father proceeded to Haddon, Wing Hock going there to collect some old debts, and it was his intention to come back and open a store at Minyip. The news of little Tommy's shocking death has called forth genuine expressions of regret from all those that knew him, not only amongst the Chinese, but also Europeans, that such an untimely end should have befallen the bright but hapless little fellow."

THE Temora Star of Saturday says:—Yesterday the children attending the Public school were dismissed for their midwinter holidays, and we leave it to the imagination of our readers to realize their joy of being released from attendance at an institution which, under present circumstances, must strike their young understandings as an ingeniously concocted punishment inflicted upon them for some unknown cause by the Department of Public Instruction. It is now three weeks ago that an inspector of Public schools condemned the tents in which the poor little creatures pass five long hours every day, at the discretion of the teachers either benumbed by cold or stifled by foul air; yet up to the present no steps have been taken by the authorities which could lead us to suppose that the urgent demands of the public of Temora will meet with early attention.

"THE way to secure land without paying rent, and also be paid for your improvements," is thus pointed out by Mr. H. W. Coxen in the Toowoomba Chronicle:—"Find a forfeited selection, then erect what improvements you require; rent, if you can, a small piece of land near, and tell everybody you have bought the land; give the district land agent a commission to put you on your guard when anyone inquires about the land or selects it. In this way you can occupy it for years. When you hear it has been selected, apply at once to the Crown Lands Commissioner before court day, for a lease of vacant Crown lands; tell him it never was in anyone's run, so not necessary to be put up to auction, though it might join the settled district; then persuade the land agent the forfeited selection should have been applied for by the selector in another land office. The selector is then informed his application should have been made elsewhere, and when he applies at the office 'elsewhere' he discovers that it has been applied for as vacant land: consequently your application will be before his, and he (the selector), if he gets the land, will have to pay for the improvements. If the selector protests that the land agent told him it was all right when he made his first application there is a sort of threat held out that they need not receive applications unless they please, or they withhold information, and do not know anything about the country—in fact, they suck the brains of the selector, which information can be immediately communicated to their friends. An instance of something similar occurred near Warra lately. Of course the present Government wink at it because it bars selection, as the unfortunate selector would have to pay for the improvements put up by an unauthorised occupier of crown lands. How long the Supreme Court would uphold this seeming fraud is not of any consequence to the occupier, as few selectors are prepared to go to law, and the despotic dictation of the land agents would bar him from getting land anywhere."

THE Southern Argus reports that, at the Berrima Police Court, on Tuesday, before Mr. Wilshire, Police Magistrate, Edward Burns Daly, late manager of the Commercial Bank, Berrima, was charged with embezzling the sum of £77 12s., which had been paid into the bank by several parties at different times. Mr. Scarvell appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Davidson, of Goulburn, for the defence. From the evidence it appeared that in one instance, that of a farmer named William Franklin, residing near Berrima, £47 had been paid by him to go to his account on or about 18th October last. Subsequently, when making inquiries as to the balance of his account, he found that the £47 had not been placed to his credit. Edward Murray deposed that £15 2s. paid by him to his brother's credit did not appear. Robert Metz also stated that his account was short £15. Defendant was next charged with stealing £40, which had been left with him by Joseph Barnes, jun., not as a deposit, but to take care of for a few days. Barnes got the £40, and when he did Daly asked him to sign a cheque for the amount, which he did. It was sought to prove that defendant used this cheque to draw £40 from Joseph Barnes, sen.'s account. This latter party believed the £40 was accounted for by defendant, who was accustomed to pay moneys for him, and he thought his account was right. Same defendant was then charged with embezzling the sum of £15, said to be deposited by James Goldie Warren, and on Wednesday a further charge of stealing £245 from the account of one James Canfield was proceeded with. On all the foregoing charges defendant was committed for trial. Bail was allowed and obtained—defendant in £80, and two sureties of £40, in each case.

THE Wagga Advertiser states that on Friday a shocking and distressful accident occurred at the Public school shortly after 2 o'clock. Madame Wallace, the sewing-mistress, was leaning over a table with her back to the fire, when one of the pupils noticed that her dress was smouldering. Immediately she raised the alarm, Madame Wallace rushed into the infants' schoolroom, where she was thrown down by Master Bennett, pupil-teacher, who displayed great presence of mind, and worked hard to extinguish the fire. Madame Wallace had, however, by this time lost all self-control; and, tearing away from Master Bennett, rushed into the boys' department, where she was speedily secured by Mr. Dart and others, thrown down, and a cloak of Miss Everitt's being thrown round her, the fire was put out. Madame Wallace, who by this time was totally unconscious, was carried into the classroom, where, a bed being hastily improvised by Mrs. Dart, Dr. Tayler attended her and dressed the burns, which extended all up the back. The unfortunate sufferer was then conveyed to the hospital, as it was stated that her only chance of recovery lay in careful and continued nursing. Madame Wallace has made many friends since her arrival in this town, and her accident will be deeply regretted by a large circle of friends. Up to a late hour last night she was progressing as favourably as could be expected under the circumstances, but the shock to the system causes more anxiety to her friends than do the actual burns.

THE following rather startling results of the analysis of certain samples of tea is given in the Age of Saturday. That journal says:—"It is satisfactory to find that our warning has not only had the desired effect of stimulating the efforts of the health authorities to prevent the sale of adulterated tea, but that the analysis we asked for has conclusively proved that our suspicions as to the character of the tea in question were merited. Mr. Frederic Dunn's analysis may be taken as conclusive on the point. From two samples drawn from the bulk of the teas sold at 3½d. to 4½d. per lb., the following result was obtained:—Ash: 6.25 per cent., price paid 3½d.; 6.60 per cent., price paid 4½d. Soluble salts: 2.45 per cent., price paid 3½d.; 2.48 per cent., price paid 4½d. Extract: 27.0 per cent., price paid 3½d.; 24.0 per cent., price paid 4½d. Theine: 0.56 per cent., price paid 3½d.; 0.75 per cent., price paid 4½d. According to a very recent analysis made by Mr. Cosmo Newbery of the teas packed by various Melbourne firms, we find that the genuine article shows:—Ash, 5.06 to 5.74 per cwt.; extract, 29.90 to 39.36; soluble salts, 2.90 to 3.54. The prices of these teas range from 2s. to 3s. 6d. per lb., duty paid. But in addition to the want of quality shown by the samples objected to, Mr. Dunn further sets at rest the question of whether they are adulterated or not by stating that the difficulty was to find 'a perfect and genuine tea leaf in the samples.' 'The stuff,' he adds, 'consisted for the most part of decayed, exhausted, or foreign (other than tea) leaves, foreign stems, tea sweepings, held together in little nodules by starch, paste, and pieces of bark, husk, and nutshells.' In fact, Mr. Dunn endorses on examination our statement of the 9th instant that 'the common process by which the rubbish is obtained appears to be to collect the refuse or exhausted leaves and the coarse, half-decayed debris of the tea garden, which, after being dried, are coloured with gypsum, lampblack, and plumbago, remilled, and packed as fresh teas for market.' And he concludes his report with this highly pregnant statement: 'All this rubbish (the samples under analysis) was faced with plumbago to give it a black appearance, and was totally unfit for dietary purposes.'"

THE Fiji Times, replying to some observations which appeared in the Pall Mall Gazette (says the latter paper), concerning the frequent outrages by South Sea Islanders on English traders in the Pacific, stoutly denies that these outrages originate in a desire for vengeance on kidnappers. They are due, according to the Fiji Times whose opinion is endorsed by an Anglican missionary lately stationed in the Floridas, to pure wickedness and native savagery waxing bold with impunity and only to be kept in check by rigorous reprisals. Within the last nine months over fifty white men have been killed by the Polynesians, a result which colonial opinion in the Pacific attributes to the High Commission system which permits "murder to be condoned with pork and wholesale massacre by the burning of empty houses." As for "systematic kidnapping," that we are assured is a thing of the past. The labour traffic since 1876 has been entirely in the hands of the Government, and is conducted under such strict regulations that "systematic kidnapping is as utterly impossible in Polynesia as it is in the crowded thoroughfares of London." In like manner we are told that European lawlessness is conspicuous by its absence. We should have less difficulty in accepting these welcome statements of our Fiji contemporary if they were not quite so sweeping. Of course there may be no lawless Europeans in Polynesia, but, judging from a pretty extensive acquaintance with the high-handed conduct of Europeans in their dealings with natives elsewhere than in the Pacific, we confess it is somewhat difficult to believe, even on the respectable authority of the Fiji Times, that the outrages in the South Seas could not possibly have originated in a desire "to retaliate for wrongs inflicted or injuries sustained."

THE following is the report of the Sydney Infirmary for the week ended 25th June, 1881:—Admitted: 40 males, 14 females; total, 54. Discharged: 33 males, 13 females; total, 46. Died: 5 males, 1 female; total, 6. Remaining: 111 males, 48 females; total, 159.

IN a paragraph published yesterday the motto of the newly formed Owl Club should have been printed "L. S. D."—the initial letters of Literature, Science, and Drama.

THE REFORM QUESTION IN VICTORIA.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, MONDAY.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Reform League was held to-night in favour of the Berry Government. The first resolution passed condemned the action of Sir Bryan O'Loghlen in bringing forward his motion at the end of a long and protracted session, and calling upon the Liberal members to fulfil their pledges by voting against the motion, and thus enable the Government to bring forward those measures which were so much in demand. The second resolution was as follows:—"That this meeting expresses its unabated confidence in the hon. the Chief Secretary and his colleagues, and thanks him for an instalment of reform he has been able to secure, and if the want of confidence motion be adverse, he be asked to use every effort to secure a dissolution of the Assembly, and thus appeal direct to the constituencies, who we firmly believe will endorse the action of the Ministry." The above resolutions were carried. Mr. Berry was received with great enthusiasm and loud cheering. He addressed the meeting, and generally condemned the Corner members of the Assembly for their action. Major Smith expressed himself in favour of a dissolution. Mr. A. T. Clarke said he was ready for a fight, and there was going to be a severe one shortly. He was quite convinced that, in a few weeks more, they would have to appeal to the people. He made generally a rather violent speech. The general tenor of the Ministerial remarks was in favour of a dissolution. Mr. Clarke said it might be said they would not have the opportunity; but the Liberal party had brought about an opportunity before now, and if they went out law and order would go out with them.

LOSS OF THE STEAMSHIP ARGYLE.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

GRAFTON, MONDAY.

The Argyle (s.) had on board 1150 bags maize, and 750 cases of meat, besides timber, tallow, hides, &c. Both the meat and maize were insured. When the vessel struck on the reef she was deeply laden, and steaming about 9 knots. She went clean over the reef, or else the reef must have ripped right along the bottom. Immediately upon getting off, Captain Boyd sounded the pumps and found eighteen inches of water, which continued to increase rapidly. The vessel now lies about sixty yards below Cameron's wharf and eighty yards from the shore. Only the tops of the masts are visible. Captain Boyd afterwards examined the position of the buoy marking the reef, and found it was fully 250 feet out of place, so that it was utterly impossible if the buoy had been steered by to have avoided striking the reef. All the crew, except the captain and officers, were brought on to Grafton. The Richmond (s.) took on the mails and passengers.

THE WRECK OF THE QUEEN OF NATIONS.

WOLLONGONG, MONDAY.

A considerable quantity of broken cargo, principally brandy, has been floating ashore for the last two days, and over 1000 bottles have been picked up along the beach and carted to the depot. A great deal of pilfering has been going on, in spite of the efforts of the police and Customs authorities. Yesterday great numbers of persons could be observed who, judging from their condition, had been indulging in sampling the contents of the bottles. The police yesterday arrested five persons who had been caught in the act of thieving. They were marched to Wollongong and lodged in the lock-up, where they were confined and brought up this morning before the local Bench. They were remanded till Friday, pretty heavy bail being exacted for their appearance. The whole affair is most discreditable to the offenders, as some of them occupy respectable positions. A portion of the vessel's poop still lies in the same position, but of the fore part of the vessel nothing is visible but a few of the ribs. Some of the cargo is evidently still in the wreck, as stray packages still come ashore. It is not likely that anchors, chains, and the railway iron can be saved. The surf is too heavy and the water too shallow to enable divers to be employed.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, MONDAY.

The Government have wired to the Agent-General to arrange at once to send emigrants by every mail steamer for Cooktown, Townsville, Mackay, and Rockhampton, also by sailing vessels. Under the present contracts to Brisbane and Maryborough the company have been instructed to receive the mails at Aden instead of at Batavia, and so reduce the detention at the latter port to 24 hours, and omit calling at Naples and Colombo. Written instructions have been sent to the Agent-General to send out 4000 emigrants per annum instead of 2000, as at present.

Mr. W. M. Boyce, of Toowoomba, met with a buggy accident yesterday, by which his right leg and right arm, near the shoulder, were broken.

David Jones, a miner, at Charters Towers, was leading a horse through the street on Saturday, when the horse bolted. The rope became twisted round his hand, and he was thrown down and trampled to death.

The Governor and Miss Kennedy have returned to Brisbane.

The weather at Cooktown is fine, with a strong south-east wind.

ADELAIDE, MONDAY.

The Government will ask for a week's adjournment in Parliament to-morrow in order to allow time to mature their policy.

A meeting was held at the Church Office to-day in regard to the teaching of the Bible in the Public schools. Representatives were present from the Roman Catholic, Presbyterian, Wesleyan, Congregational, Baptist, and Free Methodist Churches. A resolution was carried affirming that it is desirable that the Bible should be read in every school, and deploring the fact that at present it was the exception, and not the rule, to do so. Those supporting the resolution stated that they did not desire to make attendance at the Bible reading in Public schools compulsory, but would secure its being read in the presence of all children whose parents had no conscientious scruples on the subject.

BATHURST, MONDAY.

The body of a man, believed to be that of Philip Maley, has been found in the Macquarie River. Maley had been missing for some days, and when found, the body had evidently been in the water a long time, the skull being denuded of flesh. At the inquest to-day, the evidence showed that the deceased was last seen alive on the 15th instant, and he was then on the road home, going towards the river. It is supposed that in crossing the river his horse threw him and he was drowned. The jury found that death resulted from accidental drowning.

BLANEY, MONDAY.

An interest in M'Donald's reef, at Milburn Creek, was sold at Blaney to-day for £1600. Considerable excitement exists among mining investors in consequence, and Milburn Creek claims generally are commanding great attention. Three different assays, made by Professor Watt, of copper lode from Marsden's Annandale Mail, Blayney, have shown the following per-centages:—28·33 and 44. Captain Reynolds, of mining fame, is engaged inspecting this mine for report. The weather is fine, with very heavy frosts nightly. It has continued freezing in the shade all to-day.

CARCOAR, MONDAY.

Oliver and Gilchrist have discovered a gold-bearing quartz reef, situated about half a mile south of the prospector's claim, Milburn Creek. Fifteen acres have been already taken up in this neighbourhood. A supposed rich leader has been discovered in Cassidy's claim, on the northern extremity of Fox and party's lease. Quite a township is springing up in the neighbourhood of Milburn Creek. The streets are already being pegged out for about half a mile. There is a demand for business frontages, and several have been sold at £30. The weather is most healthy, with heavy frosts in the morning during the last few days.

GOULBURN, MONDAY.

The monthly gold escort left Goulburn to-day for Sydney, with the following quantities of gold:—Adelong, 811 oz. 8 dwts. 13 grs.; Araluen, 16 oz. 1 dwt. 15 grs.; Braidwood, 300 oz.; Cootamundra, 3 oz. 7 dwts. 12 grs.; Temora, 2666 oz. 14 dwts. 18 grs.: total, 3948 oz. 6 dwts. Yesterday and to-day there were severe frosts in the mornings, but it was bright and fine afterwards.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

CAPE TOWN, JUNE 7.

The Transvaal question has almost dropped out of notice.

The Royal Commission is supposed to be at Pretoria, but the telegraph line being down we have very little information on the subject. Matters seem to be quietening down, and trade is going back to its old channels. Most alarming rumours are continually being circulated, but they may be discredited as emanating from disappointed speculators.

The Cape Government have introduced a scheme for the extension of the three main lines of railway further into the interior at a cost of £5,000,000. The bill has been read a second time, and nearly passed through committee.

The Basutos are collecting the fine of cattle inflicted on them, and their submission to Sir Hercules Robinson's award is fully expected.

The Customs dues of this colony show a large monthly increase.

THE PHILADELPHIA DIPLOMAS.—The name of Dr. John Buchanan, one of the principal actors in the proceedings connected with the "bogus" medical diplomas of the Philadelphia University, is not likely to be soon forgotten. American papers now report that Buchanan, who is at present undergoing a sentence of imprisonment for a share in those fraudulent transactions, has surrendered to the State authorities all his books, letters, and papers connected with the sale of diplomas. Among them is a list of the diplomas sold to foreigners, and it is said that the correspondence includes letters from about 5000 persons who wished to obtain diplomas. It further appears that three professors of the University joined in signing 500 diplomas, five dollars being paid each time for a signature. The Spanish Consul in Philadelphia is charged with having certified the authenticity of some of the diplomas sent abroad, receiving a fee of 350 dollars for this friendly help. Altogether it is estimated that nearly 10,000 persons are more or less compromised by Buchanan's revelations.

FOOTBALL.

INTERCOLONIAL TEAM v. 25 ALL-COMERS.—The team selected to do battle for New South Wales in the forthcoming Intercolonial match, played a practice match against 25 members of the Sydney and East Sydney clubs, at Moore Park, on Saturday last. The game commenced shortly after 3 o'clock, Nash for the 25 starting the leather. For the first half-hour the odd 5 men made a perceptible difference in the play, and the 20 were closely pressed, but they soon settled down to work, and it became evident that they were fully equal to the task imposed upon them. Upon time being called the game stood—Intercolonial team, 3 goals and 5 behinds against 5 behinds for the 25. The goal kickers were Young 2, and Foster 1. Mr. Prevot acted as central umpire, and gave general satisfaction. Young, Kellett, Williams, and Ballhausen played splendidly. Notwithstanding the counter attractions several hundred spectators watched the game with keen interest, and it is evident that the game is fast gaining in public favour.

WANDERERS v. REDFERN.—This match, under English Association rules, was played on the Association Ground on Saturday. There were a fair number of spectators, but nearly all of them seemed to be interested in a foot race which came off at half-time, and not in the football. The attractions on Moore Park no doubt limited the number of those interested in the game. The wanderers, though weak in backs, had a fairly strong team, and, winning the toss, had the advantage of the strong wind from the S.W. blowing across the ground, and which was lost to the other side after half-time, when there was little or no wind. This fact caused the early part of the game to be altogether in Redfern territory, and it was not long before Woolley, on the left, shot the ball just over the tape, immediately afterwards scoring first goal by a capital shot from the side. Several corner kicks then fell to the Wanderers, and a lofty kick in the air in front of the goal found its way under from the back of one of the Redfern men. Macdonald was playing splendidly in the centre, and Tyrer and Woolley very well on the wings, whilst, for Redfern, North in the centre, showed capital form, charging and heading well, and thoroughly playing the game; one of the backs, too, kicked well. Three more goals were gained by the Wanderers, kicked by Macdonald, Danahey, and Fletcher, before half-time. But just before time was called, Redfern got the ball away, and, playing well together, in the absence of much opposition, scored a goal. The game was then stopped for a foot-race—an unheard of proceeding at a football match—and the players were kept shivering for half-an-hour. In the second half of the game Redfern were very unlucky in losing the wind, but the play was faster than before and a little more equal, though the Wanderers eventually scored six more goals to one on the part of Redfern, and thus won by 11 goals to two. The number of goals gained may to some degree be attributed to improved forward play; but also to weak back play, which certainly must be amended. Wanderers: C. Macdonald and Fletcher (centre), Tyrer and Gordon (right wing), Woolley and Danahey (left), Kerr and Roxburg (half-backs), Baker (back), Stuart (goal).

COOK'S RIVER LORNES v. COLLINGWOOD.—These two fifteens met in a very friendly contest on Saturday last, June 25th, at Cook's River, the result being an easy win for the local team by one goal and three ties to nil. Play commenced soon after 3 o'clock, the Collingwoods with eleven men and the Lornes with thirteen, each side, however, being materially strengthened by a new arrival before half-time. The game, which was a very fast one, was rendered the more enjoyable by its being free from those disputes which generally mar the pleasure of matches, especially between junior clubs. Some very good runs were indulged in during the afternoon, the passing of both sides being very good. The plucky manner in which the visiting team worked from the start to the finish, considering that they played three men short, was really praiseworthy, particularly the efforts of H. Leipner, F. Irwin, Jacobs, May, and Pierce. The Collingwoods were forced down six times; whilst the Lornes were compelled to take refuge once only. For the Riverites touches were obtained by C. Tye (captain), W. Guille, S. Douglas (two, one of which was disputed), J. Birnie, and F. Barden (disputed), the goal being very well kicked by W. Wiseman. The only drawback of the game was that the sides did not meet on terms of equality. A return at some future date, however, is looked forward to with pleasure by both teams, when it is hoped that it will prove more satisfactory.

FIRST ARFOMA v. FIRST ST. LEONARDS.—The above clubs met for the first time this season, on the St. Leonards Reserve last Saturday, and after a very exciting and pleasant contest the game resulted in a victory for the local team by two tries to nil. During the first half of the game the St. Leonards secured two tries, and when ends were changed and play resumed, the Arfomas, although they played hard to score a win, were unable to gain any advantage, except forcing St. Leonards behind once.

A portion of the team selected to represent this colony in the approaching football match with Victoria left for Melbourne overland on Saturday evening, and the remainder, with one or two exceptions, started last night. On each occasion a considerable number of friends assembled at the railway station to witness the departure of the players, and as the train moved from the platform three hearty cheers were given and cordial wishes expressed for the success of the team. The contest will take place next Friday.

A match was played on Moore Park last Saturday between the Union F. C. and the Victoria F. C., which resulted in a draw in favour of the U. F. C. For the latter, the play of Alldritt, Cooper, Robertson, and Holmes was very good, while that of Bourke and Vaughan for the losers was also good.

EXECUTIONS IN RUSSIA.—The Odessa correspondent of the Times writes under date the 23rd of April:—"In reference to the quintuple execution which took place last week at St. Petersburg, it is generally asserted—and the assertion seems to be as generally accepted without controversy—that Sophia Perofskaja is the first woman who has ever been judicially hanged in Russia, and in fact the only woman executed in the Czar's dominions since 1719, in which year a governess named Mary Hamilton had her head publicly cut off—probably with a sword—at St. Petersburg, for having made away with her three illegitimate children. Twenty-five years after that event Elizabeth, daughter of Peter the Great, abolished the punishment of death and it has never been reintroduced into the Russian criminal code since. Hence, when any one commits a more than usually atrocious crime in Russia, in order that the death punishment may be awarded, the criminal must be tried by a military tribunal, as was done in the case of all the Nihilists who have been tried during the last three years, or else by a special High Court of Justice like the Courts which tried Solovieff for firing at the late Czar, in St. Petersburg (April, 1879), and the persons who ultimately succeeded in taking his life. The first Nihilist to undergo the last penalty of the law was a young man, son of an Orthodox priest, named Kovalsky, who, having been tried by court-martial, was publicly shot here in August, 1878. From that time until now, more than 30 Nihilists have been condemned to death, and 24 of those, including Perofskaja, Kibalchich, Jelaboff, Risakoff, and Michailoff, were hanged, but the sentences of the remainder, and among them the daughter of a general, were commuted to hard labour for life in the mines of Siberia."

AMUSEMENTS.

CONCERT AT BURWOOD.

The first concert of the second season of the Western Suburbs Musical Society took place last night in the Burwood School of Arts, and was very largely attended. The programme was particularly well arranged, and the performances, with one or two slight exceptions, were remarkable for their excellence. After an overture, entitled "L'Italiana in Algieri," by Messrs. Toms and Duff and about twenty instrumentalists, the members of the society sang Leslie's chorus, "Raise again the bold refrain." Mr. Melrose followed with an extremely difficult flute solo, "Nel cor piu non mi sento," which was loudly and deservedly applauded. The next number was "My sweetheart when a boy," which was sung by Mr. Hickson; and the next, the song of the Toreador, from "Carmen," which was sung by Mr. Percival Cooper, and encored. A lady then sang in a sweet way Millard's pretty song, "Longing." Mr. W. F. Baker, lately a member of the Montague-Turner Opera Company, sang Balfe's "Didst thou but know," and was encored. The other numbers were "Wrecked and saved," sung by Mr. A. C. Johnson; "Comrades in arms," a male chorus, sung by members of the society; and a pianoforte solo, "Polonaise," played by Mr. Reginald Toms; each of which was pleasingly executed. The second part of the programme consisted of R. Forsey Brion's cantata, "Marathon." It was said to be the first occasion on which the composition had been produced in the colony, and on this account a short description of it may be interesting. The spirit is patriotic, tempered with religious feeling, and the argument is as follows:—About 490 years before Christ dwelt on the earth, Darius—King of Persia—invaded Greece with an army of 400,000 men. On the plain of Marathon he was met by Athenians who numbered only 11,000, and were commanded by Miltiades, and by them he was utterly defeated. At the close of the battle a Greek soldier quitted the field and proceeded to Athens to convey the joyous news of the triumph of his countrymen. On his arrival there he could only utter "Rejoice, victory is ours," before he fell dead from his wounds. At this point the action of the cantata commences. The Athenians raise a song of victory, but are stayed therein by a priest, who bids them first render thanks to the gods. A solemn hymn of thanksgiving follows, after which the song of victory is completed. Other messengers arrive, and the priest announces the death of Miltiades. Egina, the betrothed of the fallen chief, laments his death and celebrates his virtues. Miltiades, however, is not killed. He returns and the lovers express their mutual joy, after which the priest commands the people to prepare for the celebration of victory, Miltiades extols the devotion of Egina, and a chorus in praise of freedom is sung. A lady amateur took the part of Egina, Mr. W. F. Baker that of Miltiades, and Mr. A. C. Johnson that of the priest, and the members of the company the parts of Athenians. The solos were well rendered, and although the chorus was not numerically so strong as it was anticipated to be—some of the members being, on account of sickness, compelled to be absent—it was possessed of ample power for an agreeable rendering of the parts allotted to it. The ladies could not have sung with greater efficiency, and the volume of sound they and the gentlemen produced—marked as it was with almost mechanical precision—was quite sufficient for the size of the hall. The orchestra consisted of about twenty instrumentalists, who were led by Mr. C. M. Deane. Mr. Hector M'Lean conducted the concert, and Mr. Hugh Duff officiated as accompanist.

A concert, which was held under the auspices of the Trades and Labour Council, took place in the Protestant Hall, last evening. It was understood that the affair was for the benefit of the curriers who have been on strike during the last four or five months, and a very large number of the residents of the city and suburbs showed their sympathy with the unemployed curriers by purchasing tickets for the entertainment. Although all the ticket holders were not present, there was an attendance numbering about 800. Mr. H. Crockett (President of the Trades and Labour Council) occupied the chair, and an excellent programme was carried out.

From Brisbane we learn that the success of the Montague-Turner Opera Company has been of a most decided character. They produced the "Bohemian Girl" on Monday, 19th instant, and played it three nights to crowded houses. "Faust" was then played for the remainder of the week. The principals of the company were in excellent voice. Referring to the "Bohemian Girl," the Courier says "the opera has never before been presented in so complete a form, or with anything approaching the artistic finish." Of Miss Montague the critic writes: "The easy flexibility that comes from consummate training we have heard in Brisbane before; but the perfect purity of quality and delicacy of tone which distinguish Miss Montague's voice place her to our mind incomparably above any other vocalist who has yet appeared here."

We learn by telegram from our Melbourne correspondent that the "Pirates of Penzance" has entered upon its sixth week at the Opera House, and is to be succeeded by "Pinafore," with Miss Alice Rees as Prima Donna.

OUR "SECULAR" EDUCATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

SIR,—The regulations recently issued by the Department of Public Instruction, in relation to the general religious teaching in the State schools, must cause attention to be once more directed to the anomalous character of our educational system. It professes to be one thing, and is in reality another. In the interests of truth, and not from any merely political motive, I ask the privilege of a little space in your columns, while I endeavour to make this apparent.

On the 2nd of March last the Premier, in reply to some observations of Mr. O'Connor, made use of these words, almost identical with frequent previous expressions of his:—"I do not believe in the existence of freedom or intelligence, or in any other great national attribute, without a profound faith; but we differ as to how this faith is to be planted and kept alive." The honorable member says that it can only be taught in Denominational schools. What he means is that it can be taught only by the expenditure of public money. . . . I believe that religion is the groundwork of all national virtues, and I believe in religion being taught in the household, by the fireside, in the church, and by the proper religious teachers; but not in the Public schools. Those who advocate the teaching of religion in the Public schools would be just as logical if they advocated the teaching of religion in our workshops and factories." (Parliamentary debates, session 1880-81, No. 9).

Would not anyone suppose on reading these remarks of the Premier, the author of our present Public Instruction Act, that the educational system of the colony was a secular one; that the schoolmasters, paid for out of the public funds, would not be called upon to teach religion; that the books ordered to be used would not contain it? This would be the just conclusion, but it would be contrary to the fact. Just as in some Roman Catholic countries the school-books are full of the dogmas of Popery, and the State schoolmasters are compelled to teach them, so here the school-books are full of Protestant dogmas, and the masters, the direct servants of the State, are forced to inculcate them.

Let me as briefly as is consistent with clearness show that this is the case. I will take a book of the prescribed series at random—the "Third Book of Lessons"—and give two or three out of numerous available illustrations. The readings from the Old Testament have the necessary dogmatic colouring given to them. Thus, in the history of Moses, we have the quotation:—"When he was come to years he refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the pleasure of sin for a season; esteeming the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures of Egypt." In the narration concerning the Jewish deliverance from Egypt, we are told that "the lamb represented our blessed Saviour, sacrificed for the sins of the world." But, apart from avowedly scriptural readings, the narrations of geography, natural history, and anecdote, are interspersed with similar references. You might possibly object to quote these in your secular columns, so I will merely solicit space for two verses of Heber, as a sample of the poetry:—

"Shall we whose souls are lighted
With wisdom from on high;
Shall we to men benighted,
The lamp of life deny?
Salvation! oh, salvation!
The joyful sound proclaim,
Till each remotest nation
Has learnt Messiah's name.

Waft, waft, ye winds, his story,
And you, ye waters, roll,
Till like a sea of glory,
It spreads from pole to pole;
Till o'er our ransomed nature,
The Lamb for sinners slain,
Redeemer, King, Creator,
In bliss returns to reign."

Let it be distinctly understood that I am not now contending that there is anything wrong in this, if it were openly alleged that there should be a department of the State for such teaching. If that were done, the question would become a political one, to be fought out in the usual constitutional fashion. I am simply objecting to misrepresentation. This is religious teaching to which numbers are opposed, and Sir Henry Parkes, par excellence the representative man of the colony, declares it ought not to be tolerated in the schools of the State, or to be made the subject of the expenditure of public money.

How has this essentially false condition of things arisen? Simply by the wording of the Public Instruction Act, which in effect declares that "black" shall be taken to include "white." The term "secular," which means "relating to the affairs of this world," is, by clause 7, made to include "religious." Thus the colony is committed to State aid to religion on a vast scale, while professing by the mouths of its leading men the contrary. It is precisely as if an Act had been passed allowing of State subsidies to secular institutions only with the proviso that "secular institutions" shall be held to include Episcopalian, Presbyterian, Wesleyan, and Congregational places of worship. It is in reality worse than than this, inasmuch as the present religious teachers are State officials, who ought to be selected simply on the ground of their moral character and intellectual capacity, without reference to their religious opinions. But the saddest feature of the whole thing is its untruthfulness—that we are professing to be like our neighbour colonies, and to have no State religion, while, in reality, our whole school system is a dogmatic one, and every schoolmaster is, perforce, a propagandist of Protestant Christianity.

UNIVERSITY EXAMINATIONS.

On Saturday we published a list of those who passed the recent examinations at the University. There were one or two omissions, and the scholarships were wanting, as they could not be obtained on Friday night. We therefore republish Saturday's list, together with additions since obtained:—

MATRICULATION EXAMINATION.

The following candidates have passed the Matriculation Examination:—

G. B. Allen, L. F. Armstrong, W. G. Armstrong, F. H. Backhouse, F. L. Bell, V. Black, F. M. Bladen, E. G. Blaxland, A. B. Carvosso, F. W. Clarke, W. R. Clay, G. M. Colley, C. Cowper, R. S. Cranna, C. M. Deane, J. T. Dudley, W. Dwyer, J. O. Fairfax, J. C. Gannon, S. Geddes, G. C. Halliday, W. Helsham, E. T. Holle, S. Jamieson, Thos. E. Jones, E. Trevor Jones, S. E. Lamb, H. H. Lee, F. Leverrier, A. W. Macansh, G. H. Maher, R. W. M'Coy, D. M'Guinn, G. W. Millard, E. J. Murphy, W. S. Newton, P. Owen, W. G. Parish, A. Paul, F. Paul, W. S. Perdriau, A. E. Perkins, H. Perkins, E. Porter, C. Purser, F. W. Reeve, P. W. Rygate, A. B. Shand, H. P. Tange, W. F. Tarplee, W. Thompson, T. W. Ward, E. C. Wood.

The following obtained honours:—

CLASSICS.—Class I: L. Armstrong, G. C. Halliday, Thos. E. Jones, V. Black; F. Leverrier, A. B. Carvosso, æq.; W. F. Tarplee. Class II: J. O. Fairfax, C. Cowper, G. Millard.

MATHEMATICS.—Class I: G. C. Halliday, F. Leverrier, P. W. Rygate, Thos. E. Jones, A. B. Carvosso, L. Armstrong. Class II.: E. J. Murphy, E. Porter, W. Dwyer, J. O. Fairfax; S. E. Lamb, A. W. Macansh, æq. Class III: J. T. Dudley, A. B. Shand, C. Purser, A. Perkins, F. L. Bell, E. G. Blaxland.

No honours are given in Natural Science at Matriculation, but those who pass are arranged in two classes. The following passed in Class I.:—V. Black, F. Bladen, A. B. Carvosso, F. W. Clark, C. Cowper, C. M. Deane, W. Dwyer, G. C. Halliday, W. Helsham, F. Leverrier, W. G. Parish, A. E. Perkins, C. Purser, A. B. Shand, H. P. Tange, W. F. Tarplee, E. C. Wood.

Three scholarships are given at the matriculation examination for general proficiency. They were awarded as follows:—Bowman-Cameron Scholarship, G. C. Halliday; University Scholarship, L. Armstrong; University Scholarship, Thomas E. Jones, F. Leverrier, æq.

FIRST YEAR EXAMINATION.

CLASSICS.—Honours—Class I.: A. Piddington, G. E. Rich, prox. acc. Class II.: J. Woolcock, H. Crocker, A. J. Cormack, A. E. Poolman, Tom Rolin. Pass: U. M'Evilly, J. F. Rofe, J. Dobbie, W. James, G. E. Fairfax, T. Rigg, H. M. Baylis, L. Baker, J. N. Manning, —Merewether, J. W. Street, P. Berne, C. Rygate, — Corbett, J. G. Legge, æq.; A. M. Shaw, F. Moore, W. Hall, W. Amess, P. O'Reilly.

MATHEMATICS.—Honours—Class I.: J. Woolcock, Tom Rolin. Class II.: G. E. Fairfax, H. M. Baylis. Passed—Class I.: A. Piddington, L. Baker, æq.; W. James; J. G. Legge, J. F. Rofe, æq.; H. Crocker, C. Rygate, æq.; W. Amess, J. W. Street, æq.; T. Rigg. Class II.: U. M'Evilly, —Merewether, æq.; W. Hall, A. M. Shaw, P. Berne: —Corbett, J. N. Manning, æq.; F. Moore, P. O'Reilly, G. E. Rich.

NATURAL SCIENCE.—Class I.: A. E. Poolman, G. E. Fairfax, Tom Rolin, J. Woolcock. Class II.: A. Piddington, J. F. Rofe, J. N. Manning. Class III.: W. Hall, H. Crocker, J. G. Legge, P. Berne, A. J. Cormack, — Corbett, J. Dobbie, H. M. Baylis, T. Rigg.

Three scholarships are given at the first year examination. They were awarded as follows:—Lithgow Scholarship for Classics: A. B. Piddington, (G. E. Rich, prox. acc.). George Allen Scholarship for Mathematics: J. Woolcock. Levey Scholarship for Natural Science: A. E. Poolman.

SECOND YEAR EXAMINATIONS.

CLASSICS.—Honours—Class I.: F. R. Barlee, G. E. Rennie. Class II.: F. Butler, F. B. Wilkinson, C. Ayres. Class III.: G. Sutherland. Passed: G. Addison, A. Beehag, E. Campbell, H. Connell, W. S. Deane, C. A. Flint, P. Kenna, J. Marrack, G. B. Somerville, H. F. Roberts, T. Trebeck, E. H. Sheppard.

MATHEMATICS.—Honours—Class I.: C. A. Flint. Class II.: G. E. Rennie. Class III.: G. Sutherland, F. B. Wilkinson, Passed.—Class I.: E. Sheppard, G. Somerville, Class II.: F. Butler, C. Crane, J. Marrack, F. Morrish, C. Ayres, W. Deane æq. Class III.: H. Connell, P. Kenna, æq.

NATURAL SCIENCE.—Chemistry and Geology.—Class I: G. E. Rennie, G. Sutherland. Class II.: F. R. Barlee. Class III.: C. A. Flint, A. Beehag, E. H. Sheppard, J. Marrack, C. Ayres, F. B. Wilkinson, C. Crane, T. Trebeck, W. Deane, F. Morrish, E. Campbell, G. B. Somerville, P. Kenna, G. Addison, H. Roberts.

Five scholarships are given at the second year examination. They were awarded as follows:—Cooper Scholarship for classics, F. R. Barlee; Barker Scholarship for mathematics, C. A. Flint; Deas-Thomson Scholarship for natural science, G. E. Rennie; Renwick Scholarship for natural science, G. Sutherland; R. C. Want Scholarship for chemistry, G. E. Rennie.

B. A. EXAMINATION.

CLASSICS.—Honours—Class I.: J. Cribb, R. King. Class II.: J. F. M'Manamey, P. V. M'Culloch, H. M'Lelland. Pass: J. Elphinston, A. W. M'Carthy.

MATHEMATICS.—Honours—Class I.: J. Cribb. Class II.: J. F. M'Manamey. Pass—Class I.: A. G. Ralston, P. V. M'Culloch. Class II.: H. M'Lelland, J. Elphinston. Class III.: C. Fletcher, R. King, A. W. M'Carthy.

NATURAL SCIENCE.—Honours—Class I.: None. Class II.: A. G. Ralston, J. Cribb. Class III.: Fletcher.

University prize of £10, J. Cribb. The Belmore medal for agricultural chemistry was awarded to A. G. Ralston.

LECTURE.

A lecture was delivered yesterday evening at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association, before an audience sufficiently large to comfortably fill the lecture-room. The chair was occupied by Mr. John Pomeroy, who in a few appropriate sentences introduced the lecturer—the Rev. George Grimm, M.A., who took for his subject "The Immortality of the Soul." He remarked that the Scripture account of the Creation made a clear distinction between the soul and the body. The body was formed from the earth that we tread upon, whereas the soul was the very breath of God; and this distinction, thus early made, seemed never to have been altogether lost. He did not intend, however, to take up the Scripture argument, but would merely look at the matter in a natural light. The argument for the immortality of the soul was a cumulative one, and they were warranted in saying that apart from the Scriptures there was plenty of evidence in favour of the immortality of the soul. He would point as a strong presumptive evidence to the analogy of Nature. Take the case of an insect, which passed through three separate stages of existence, but still retained its identity. So with man, who existed before birth, who existed during this life, and then, as they believed, passed into a higher state of existence. This was, of course, only presumptive evidence, but it showed that there was nothing unnatural in the assumption. Another argument he would adduce was founded on the indestructibility of matter. They could not destroy a single atom of matter upon this world; they could only change its form. If they put a stick upon the fire they apparently destroyed it; but if they saved the ashes, and collected the gases and smoke evolved from it, they would find that the whole put together would weigh exactly as much as the original stick. If this was so with regard to the material world could we say that the soul of man, which was infinitely higher, was doomed to perish? No force even was ever lost; once set in motion, it went on for ever. All material objects could be resolved into their elements, but if the soul was in itself a unit it could not be resolved into anything else. Another argument was the general consent of mankind. We found that this principle was believed in by the ancient Egyptians, Greeks, and Romans, and this he illustrated by quotations from Plato and Seneca. In modern times we found the same belief in all uncivilized nations, and the same ideas prevailed even among the aborigines of Australia. Coming to a still stronger argument, he would refer to the inborn desire in the human mind for immortality. Every desire that is given to man is accompanied by something to satisfy it. Could we believe that God has given man this strong desire for immortality only to mock him? Then there was an argument to be drawn from man's capacity for knowledge and enjoyment. Even the greatest philosopher would acknowledge that he was only on the threshold of knowledge. Unless there was a future state, we could not understand why these capacities should have been given to him. He would further take an argument from the moral disorder which prevails in the present state. There was reason to believe that this world is under the government of a God who is righteous and who will not suffer iniquity to go unpunished. Could we believe that crime and evil were to go for ever unpunished? Was there to be no end to it? There were arguments to be drawn from conscience and the horrors of remorse; but he would not go into these questions, as they would be treated upon in a lecture next week. But there was no light in nature to show in what condition we shall live after the dissolution of the body; for this we must turn to revelation in order that we may enter upon a state of joy and happiness for ever more. A vote of thanks to the rev. lecturer was moved by the Rev. D. T. M'Intyre, seconded by the Rev. J. Walker, and carried unanimously. The meeting closed as it began with the usual devotional exercises.

INTERESTING TO WIDOWS.—A husband signed three notes or memoranda, giving certain plate and furniture to his wife for her own sole use and benefit, specifying in the third memorandum that it was to be hers and hers only from that date. By his will he gave all his property to his wife for her life, and after her death to his nieces equally. As some of the nieces were under age, an action was brought to decide the question whether or not the plate and furniture formed part of the property to be so divided. Vice-Chancellor Hall, in deciding that the gifts to the wife were invalid, and that all the plate and furniture must be considered as part of what was to be divided among the nieces, expressed his regret that he was obliged so to decide, and he considered it a monstrous state of the law that such a gift could not be maintained. There are very few persons who will not agree with the Vice-Chancellor; and who would gladly see the law repealed which provides that to validate such a gift as the above it must be made a trust, and thereby involve a simple act in the troubles and responsibilities which so often arise out of a trust.

MELBOURNE EXHIBITION COMMISSION.

The New South Wales Commissioners to the Melbourne International Exhibition held their final meeting in the long room beneath the Free Library, yesterday afternoon. The Hon. Captain Onslow, M.L.C., occupied the chair, and there were present Sir J. Hay, the Hons. Watt, Frazer, and C. Moore, M.L.C.; Messrs. J. Davies, W. Brodribb, J. F. Burns, R. B. Smith, E. Combes, Jacob, H. C. Dangar, M.L.A.; Messrs. C. S. Wilkinson, E. P. Ramsay, H. Halloran, C. J. Roberts, H. Beit, J. Alger, E. Vickery, E. B. Woodhouse, H. C. Russell; and Dr. Renwick, M.L.A., the Executive Commissioner.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

Dr. RENWICK read the following report:—

"Your Executive Commissioner has the honour to report as follows:—

"1. Upon the last occasion on which I had the honour of presenting my eighth report to the Commission, ten days before the opening of the Melbourne Exhibition, the work of preparation in connection with the New South Wales Courts was in process of completion, and I was only able to express a hope that the exhibits would all be in position by that day, and that the catalogue would be available for the purpose of facilitating inspection and supplying every information with reference to them. Although upon my arrival in Melbourne, three days subsequent to making this report, I found that many exhibits had still to arrive, and much yet remained to be done, upon the 1st of October, the opening day, both in the Fine Art Court, in the permanent building, where the ceremonies in connection with the opening took place, as well as in the main court in the temporary annexe, where I had the honour of receiving his Excellency the Marquis of Normanby and the vice-regal party, everything was in a state of complete readiness. It may be added in connection with this ceremony, that it was most gratifying to find the lively interest taken by the members of this Commission and by the colony in general in the representation of New South Wales in Melbourne demonstrated, and brought in a striking manner before the public of the sister colony, by the presence of a number of the commissioners on this occasion, among whom were the three vice-presidents, the Mayor of Sydney, Messrs. Alger, Barbour, Davies, Halloran, Higgins, Lord, Mackenzie, Moore, C. J. Roberts, Ramsay, R. Burdett Smith, Vickery, and Wilkinson, as well as of many leading members of the community. I was able upon this occasion to present to his Excellency the Marquis of Normanby a copy of the catalogue, other copies of which had been supplied to the representatives of the Press several days previously, thereby furnishing the public with the earliest possible information with regard to our court.

"2. The attendance throughout the currency of the Exhibition justified, in point of numbers, the anticipations which had been formed regarding it. The total attendance during the 182 days upon which the exhibition was open was 1,309,496. The daily average of paid admissions was 5325, the largest number of visitors on any one day being 24,120, on the opening day. During the whole of the time the New South Wales Court was very well attended, and the greatest interest was manifested by the general public in the exhibits; and the officers employed in the court were in constant attendance to answer the numerous questions asked, and furnish the information constantly required. Besides the court catalogue, various pamphlets and other documents, containing the fullest possible information with regard to the colony, were furnished in all cases where there was reason to suppose that they would be well bestowed. Other books and documents published under the authority of the Government were in several instances presented to foreign representatives—the Japanese, Italian, Belgium, and French—and a handsomely bound copy of Baron von Mueller's work 'Semi-Tropical Plants of Australia' was presented by order of the Government to each Executive Commissioner.

"3. On the other hand, foreign countries were liberal in their donations to this colony. Professor Reuleaux, by order of the Emperor of Germany, presented two handsome life-size statues—Artemis, and the Wounded Amazon—and a bas-relief of Medusa, through your Executive Commissioner, to the Academy of Fine Arts in Sydney; the Commissioners for India and the Straits Settlements presented collections of valuable articles, both raw and manufactured, illustrative of the resources and manufactures of the respective countries; and collections of a similar character have been obtained from nearly all the courts in the Exhibition. These collections, which are intended for the Australian Museum, will prove most valuable as sources of information on the subjects of the various countries of which they are characteristic.

"4. At the close of the Exhibition, I found that I had at my disposal a number of articles which would be most acceptable to certain public institutions in the sister colony, and some of which it would be of advantage to our colony to leave as public monuments in Victoria. The panorama of Sydney, and two handsome cases of photographs of objects of interest in and around the city, which were specially prepared by order of the Commission, at the suggestion of Committee No. 1, and upon which great trouble was expended, were presented to the Public Library of Melbourne. Placed there, they will be the means of conveying to strangers who have not had the opportunity of visiting New South Wales a fairly adequate idea both of the natural beauty of the surroundings of our capital city, and of the handsome aspect of the buildings which have of late contributed so much to the improvement of its appearance. The large collection of photographs shown by the Government Printer, which not only served to illustrate the progress made of late in photographic art, but also brought before the spectator a series of excellent representations of the characteristic scenery of New South Wales, was formed into several groups, and presented to the Institutes of Geelong, Sandhurst, Sale, and Rosedale, and to the Town Halls of Melbourne and Geelong. The surplus of the wines, which were placed at my disposal, I caused to be presented to the Melbourne Hospital and Prince Alfred Hospital, Melbourne, by which bodies they were gratefully acknowledged.

"5. Special shows of wool and agricultural and horticultural produce were held during the currency of the Exhibition, and in each of these departments efforts were made to secure the fitting representation of the colony. With regard to the wool show, those members of the wool committee who were kind enough to render me valuable assistance in this work, will perhaps bear me out when I say that the most complete indifference in this matter was shown by our leading wool producers, and that for this reason the collection of the wool sent from this colony was anything but representative. It should, however, be added that the other colonies, with the natural exception of Victoria, which carried off a large proportion of the prizes, did not in most cases show even as well as our own. In the first and last fruit shows in November, 1880, and March, 1881, we participated with signal success, bearing off a special first for a complete collection of fruit of the citrus tribe at the first, and two special first awards for collections of fruit and vegetables at the second. At the great grain show in March we were, inspite of grave difficulties, equally successful.

"6. With regard to the system of judging, the first steps were taken by the Melbourne Commission soon after the opening, with a view to constituting a body of jurors upon a basis which should give satisfaction to all. The greatest difficulty was, however, encountered in the work of adjusting the relative proportions of jurors nominated by the Melbourne Commission, and the countries and colonies participating in the Exhibition. In this matter I endeavoured to obtain a fair share of nominations for New South Wales, and was glad to find the number eventually allotted to be in proportion to the number and importance of our exhibits. It was, however, conclusively proved subsequently that even if a far larger number of nominations had been allowed to this colony they would have been valueless; for the greatest difficulty was encountered in finding residents of this colony who were competent to exercise the functions of jurors and able to sacrifice the time necessary to the work. To those who did undertake this duty our best thanks are due. There is one important fact in connection with the judging which, though it has been repeatedly adverted to, cannot be too frequently impressed upon those who are concerned in the awards given at Melbourne. Whereas at previous International Exhibitions, and notably at that last held in Paris, articles were judged and placed by comparison only with other articles of a similar nature in the same court, at Melbourne the system of awards was purely international; that is, each exhibit was judged and placed by comparison with every article of the same nature throughout the whole Exhibition. When this fact is considered, it will be recognized that our colony has carried off more than its proportional share of prizes. From the table of awards which I append it will be seen that the total number of awards made to New South Wales is 379, or more than an average of one award to each exhibitor. This total is composed of 86 firsts, 78 seconds, 92 thirds, 35 fourths, 76 fifths, and 12 honourable mentions. Medals will be awarded only in the case of exhibits placed in the first order of merit. As far as can at present be ascertained, the distribution of medals will be as follows:—Gold, 16; silver, 22; bronze, 33. As it is anticipated that the issue of medals and diplomas by the Melbourne Commissioners will be delayed for some time after all other work in connection with the representation of our colony at the Melbourne Exhibition is concluded, it has been arranged that the Colonial Secretary will receive the medals and diplomas, and cause steps to be taken for their proper distribution.

"7. By consent of the representatives of the countries and colonies participating, the closing of the Exhibition was postponed from 31st March, the date originally fixed, to 30th April. Upon 22nd March, a record of the awards, as far as then decided, was formally presented by his Excellency the Governor of Victoria to the various representatives. A public holiday was proclaimed on this occasion, and very large numbers attended at the Exhibition. This was the only ceremony performed in connection with the closing of the Exhibition, which was effected, as far as the general public were concerned, on the 30th of April, without further demonstation. The work of packing up and removing the goods was then immediately commenced, and within the last few weeks a certain number of the exhibits have been returned upon each voyage of the A. S. N. Company's steamers. Immediately upon their arrival the owners have been requested to remove them. All the exhibits have in this way been returned, and have, with very few exceptions, now been finally disposed of.

"8. Full particulars with reference to the representation of our colony at the Melbourne Exhibition will be found in my report to the Government, which I have completed, and hope shortly to present to his Excellency the Governor.

"9. Before concluding this, my final report, and thus closing my connection with the Commissioners, as far as my official duties are concerned, it gives me great pleasure to take this opportunity of expressing my grateful acknowledgments for the hearty co-operation and kind advice and assistance which I have at all times found them willing and prompt to render. My thanks are due in a special degree to the chairman of the Finance Committee (Mr. Alger), and also to the chairman of Committee No. 6 (Mr. John Davies); to Mr. Brodribb and Mr. Trebeck, for their exertions in connection with the wool show, and to Mr. Vickery, who kindly provided store-room for the wool exhibits. In the matter of the decoration of the courts, and especially in the preparation of photographs, to which I have already alluded as forming such a striking feature in our Fine Art Court, the artistic taste of the chairman of the Committee on Decoration and Art (Mr. Dangar) proved of the greatest assistance; while Messrs. Wilkinson, Moore, Mackenzie, and Ramsay rendered most valuable services in the various departments with which they are concerned. I take this final opportunity of informing the Commission of the specially valuable services which have been rendered to our colony in its representation at Melbourne by the secretary, Mr. Hotham, who, throughout the whole course of the history of the Commission, has displayed talents and energy of no ordinary character, and has, in season and out of season, placed them entirely at our disposal; and of Mr. Joubert, who has ably fulfilled the duties which have devolved on him. These gentlemen, in an eminent degree, promoted the very successful results which have attended our representation, and deserve the very best thanks of the commission. Several of the Government departments have contributed largely towards facilitating the work which we are now concluding. The very large amount of printing required at almost every step has been most promptly and effectively performed on every occasion by the Government printer; and the catalogue, which was universally admired as the best of its kind at the Exhibition, at least among the colonial courts, may well be taken as a specimen. The free use of the telegraph wire has proved perfectly invaluable for the dissemination of intelligence relating to the Exhibition, and in facilitating generally the despatch of our business; while the kind concession of free carriage of exhibits on the Government railways has been without doubt largely instrumental in increasing the number of exhibits sent from the country. It will be remembered that at an early period in the labours of the Commission, Messrs. Ford, Adams, and Co. most kindly offered their services free for the transaction of all Custom-House and shipping agency. The offer was gratefully accepted, and all business of the nature indicated in Messrs. Ford, Adams, and Co.'s offer has been most readily and effectively discharged, great expense as well as labour and trouble being thereby saved; and I would suggest that a letter expressing the hearty thanks of the Commission be addressed to Messrs. Ford, Adams, and Co."

Appended to the report were lists of the awards.

Dr. RENWICK supplemented his report by saying that the colony had been well represented at the Melbourne Exhibition, that it had secured a surprisingly large number of orders of merit and other awards, and that in comparison with other countries it had been placed in no mean position there. He remarked also that the colonies generally now occupied a prominent position in the eyes of nations, not only in consequence of the exhibitions which had been held in them, though these had no doubt helped them to do so, but because their exhibits had shown the progress they had made towards an exalted position in the world in regard to civilization and culture. He had only to add now that he thanked the members of the Commission for the courteous and kind manner in which they had treated him, and for the assistance they had given him. Without their courtesy and aid, their portion in the Exhibition would not have been the great success it had been. He begged to move that the report be received and adopted.

Mr. JOHN DAVIES seconded the motion, which was agreed to unanimously.

Mr. JOHN ALGER then read the report of the Finance Committee connected with the Commission, which contained a statement of accounts, showing a credit balance in the hands of the Commission of £1234 17s. 9d., with liabilities estimated at £632 5s. 1d., and a recommendation that the committee should be empowered to settle the liabilities and draw up a final balance-sheet to be appended to the report of the commission to the Government. It also recommended that an honorarium be presented to the secretary in consideration of his very valuable services.

Mr. ALGER added that Dr. Renwick had, out of his private resources, defrayed his personal expenses in travelling to and from, and residing in, Melbourne. He also explained that, although the item for freight might appear large, its magnitude was attributable to the fact that it included cartage from the Garden Palace to the wharfs in Sydney, and from the wharfs in Melbourne to the Exhibition Building there. He concluded by moving the adoption of the report.

Mr. JOHN DAVIES seconded the motion, which was unanimously agreed to.

Dr. RENWICK read the report of the Commission to the Governor, which he said had been approved of by Sir James Martin, the president of the Commission, and would ultimately have to be laid before Parliament. In accordance with the desire of the Commission, we shall refrain from publishing the document until an appropriate time for its appearance in these columns.

Dr. RENWICK moved,—"That the report be adopted as the report of the Commission to the Governor."

Mr. H. C. DANGAR seconded the motion, and it was unanimously agreed to.

It was next resolved, on the motion of Dr. RENWICK, seconded by Mr. J. F. BURNS,—"That a letter be forwarded to Messrs. Ford, Adams, and Co., expressing the hearty thanks of this Commission for the very effective manner in which they have gratuitously transacted the Custom-house business of the Commission."

Mr. JOHN DAVIES moved,—"That, in consideration of his valuable services as Executive Commissioner, a gold medal be presented to Dr. Renwick, the cost of the same to be defrayed by the members." He had great pleasure in doing this, and believed the proposal would be received with general approbation. He had on several occasions accompanied the doctor to Melbourne, and had gleaned experience of the trouble and anxiety he had undergone to have the colony fairly and properly represented there; and he was convinced that there was not a gentleman present who had noticed Dr. Renwick's efforts but would readily admit that they had tended towards success, and had been satisfactory to the Commission and honourable to himself. (Cheers.) He trusted that a social reunion would also take place amongst the members, at which the presentation to Dr. Renwick might take place. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. R. B. SMITH seconded the motion, and with much pleasure bore testimony to the universality of the respect and esteem which Dr. Renwick, by his forbearance, courtesy, tact, and gentlemanly demeanour, had won from the foreign, British, and colonial Commissioners.

Dr. RENWICK expressed himself highly gratified with this manifestation of kindness. He now begged to move,—"That this Commission do now dissolve, and is hereby dissolved accordingly; the Finance Committee being empowered to complete any business which may hereafter arise in connection with the work of the Commission."

Mr. JOHN DAVIES seconded the motion, and it was unanimously agreed to.

The meeting then terminated.

COMMERCIAL.

TAMWORTH STOCK MARKET.

TAMWORTH, MONDAY.

At Messrs. Nathan Cohen and Co.'s regular weekly auction sales of fat stock to-day, the cattle market was improving. Prices reached about 1s per 100 lbs. They sold—Peel River Co.'s bullocks, from £4 7s to £4 11s; Williams' bullocks, £3 15s. No fat sheep were yarded, and prime are scarce.

BOROUGH COUNCIL.

PETERSHAM.—A meeting held on 20th June. Present—The Mayor, Aldermen Barrell, Cubitt, Gelding, M'Mahon, and Pile. Minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed. Correspondence: From Mr. F. T. Watkins, calling attention to the state of Cambridge-street. Resolved, on the motion of Alderman M'Mahon, seconded by Alderman Pile,—"That the matter be left in the hands of the Chairman of Works." From Mr. John Henderson calling attention to cattle straying about the streets. Resolved, on the motion of Alderman M'Mahon, seconded by Alderman Cubitt,—"That the letter be handed to the inspector (Mr. Chandler) for report." From Mr. F. H. Reuss, jun., calling attention to the state of Malton Crescent, and offering to allow the Council to cut down some of his land, and use the earth in filling up the road. Resolved, on the motion of Alderman Barrell seconded by Alderman M'Mahon,—"That the letter be referred to the Committee of Works for consideration and report." From Mrs. Williams, again calling attention to the footpath near her property. Resolved, on the motion of Alderman M'Mahon, seconded by Alderman Pile,—"That the matter be left in the hands of the chairman of works." From Mr. J. J. Hawkins, Mr. James Everett, and Mr. W. J. Turner, asking the Council to kerb and gutter in front of their property, and offering to contribute the usual percentage. Resolved, on the motion of Alderman Pile, seconded by Alderman Cubitt,—"That the request be complied with." From W. Senior, asking permission to lay some pipes under the footpath. Resolved, on the motion of Alderman Barrell, seconded by Alderman M'Mahon,—"That the request be complied with provided the work be carried out under the supervision of the overseer of works." From a number of residents in Trafalgar-terrace, asking the Council to have the footpath in front of their respective properties asphalted, and offering to contribute the usual per-centage. Resolved, on the motion of Alderman Cubitt, seconded by Alderman Gelding,—"That the request be complied with." The overseer submitted his usual fortnightly report. The Mayor brought up a report from the Finance Committee, recommending payment of sundry accounts, amounting to £114 9s. 6d. Resolved, on the motion of Alderman Barrell, seconded by Alderman M'Mahon,—"That the report be adopted." Alderman Gelding brought up a report from the Lighting Committee, recommending the erection of ten additional lamps at South Kingston Ward and four in Annandale Ward. Resolved, on the motion of Alderman Cubitt, seconded by Alderman Barrell,—"That the report be adopted." The Mayor brought up a report recommending that the main hall be plastered. Resolved, on the motion of Alderman Cubitt, seconded by Alderman Barrell,—"That the report be adopted." Questions: By Alderman Cubitt: What is the reason of the delay in completing the metalling of Crystal-street, ordered by this Council some time since? Will the Mayor issue instructions that the work be taken in hand without further delay, and that additional labour be employed to complete the said metalling with all possible speed? The Mayor said: The cause of the delay has been chiefly in consequence of the neglect of the contractor to supply the blue metal in sufficient quantities to proceed with the work. To prevent further inconvenience, white metal will be used instead, and will be placed upon the road as quickly as the ordinary staff of labourers can take it. There will be no occasion to employ extra hands, and the entire road will be metalled in a fortnight. Alderman Cubitt asked why the instructions of the Town-hall Committee, confirmed by this council some time since, about removing the earth from the land around the Town-hall and expending it on Frederick-street, has not been attended to. The Mayor replied—"Other important works in the borough (especially the Brighton-street culvert) have taken up the time of the hands employed, but it is expected this will be attended to in a few days. Alderman Gelding said that he was glad attention had been called to the matter. He had himself sent a notice of motion, with a view of obtaining a further supply of metal, but it had not been received by the Council-clerk in time for this meeting. Resolved, on the motion of Alderman Gelding, seconded by Alderman Cubitt, "That the footpaths in Regent-street be put in thorough repair, at a probable cost of £6, and that the water be prevented flowing across the road." Resolved, on the motion of Alderman Cubitt, seconded by Alderman Gelding,—"That Frederick-street, from Charles-street to Durham-street, be put in thorough repair, at a probable cost of £15."—AVENEY MOWLE, Council-clerk.

MR. LACKEY ON RAILWAYS.

(BY OUR OWN REPORTER.)

On the occasion of the banquet given last week at Glen Innes to Sir John Robertson and the Hon. John Lackey, the latter delivered the following speech, which contains some interesting and valuable information respecting our railways.

Mr. LACKEY said: After the number of toasts which had been proposed of a similar character to the one proposed that night, and which had been so heartily received by the company present, it really seemed difficult for him to find words to express the thanks he felt. It was now some few days ago since Sir John Robertson and himself with others reached the city of Grafton—or rather the entrance to the Clarence River; and from that time to the present their reception had consisted of one series of public ovations. Under ordinary circumstances it must be admitted that this was gratifying; but when he found that these compliments and receptions were offered in a manner that expressed feelings of regard and esteem for his friend and colleague Sir John Robertson, who had been so long before the public of this country, he felt that the Government, under such circumstances, had great reason to be proud of the honour done them. (Cheers.) At entertainments of this sort, where they occurred so frequently, one after the other, it was very difficult for a public man to get out of a stereotyped groove and say anything fresh; and he felt that any words he might use to-night would fall short of what he should like to convey in return for the great compliment and honour paid to Sir John Robertson and himself. They had felt it to be their duty, as members of the Administration, to take a trip round these districts for the purpose of examining the proposals for the construction of a railway, and to make themselves acquainted as far as they could with the people of the various districts through which they passed. They had felt it their duty as public men, and as forming part of the Administration, to visit these districts, to see the inhabitants, to hear their complaints, and if they had no complaints, to join them in the hearty evidence of their loyalty and hospitality, which they had much pleasure in doing on an occasion like the present. (Cheers.) He was very happy in being able to say that during their career the complaints had been reduced to a minimum. It was the case that in the districts through which they had travelled, they had met with residents who had something to say of the delay in the construction of a post and telegraph office, or in the construction of a gaol, or some other grievance of that sort, but in no instance had they seen any evidence of discontent on the part of the people whose hospitality they had received, or anything which would lead to the idea that their interests had been neglected. (Hear, hear.) And having gone through these districts, and heard all their grievances, he thought Sir John Robertson and himself might congratulate themselves upon having performed a duty as members of the Government towards the people of the country. (Hear, hear.) In speaking of the grievances which in some cases existed, or rather the desires which had been expressed for alterations in public buildings, and for having works carried out to a greater extent than before, and other things of that description, he was brought to a circumstance connected with our legislation which he thought would commend itself to thinking people throughout the length and breadth of this land. It was the necessity for a municipal system which would relieve the central Government of duties which belonged to the residents themselves, and which he felt would be carried out by them more effectively and economically than they could be by the central Government. (Cheers.) It was gratifying to him to know that the Government contemplated introducing during the next session of Parliament a bill to meet this object; and he felt convinced that when this bill became the law of the country, when the municipal endowment would be enlarged and the erection of public buildings be in the hands of the residents of the municipalities, a great reform would take place in the administration of the affairs of the country, and the works would be carried out in a much more satisfactory manner than at the present time. (Cheers.) On reflection it must occur to everyone that a central Government in Sydney, charged with the carrying out of the public works of the colony small and large, from one end of the colony to the other, could not carry out those small works as they could be managed by the people most interested, and if our municipal system would bring about that result, he was sure it would meet with the approbation of thinking people throughout the colony. (Hear, hear.) While travelling through these districts there was one feature connected with their career which had struck him very forcibly, and that was the feeling of regard and esteem—he might almost say affection—with which his friend, Sir John Robertson had been received. (Cheers.) Sir John, during the time he had occupied a seat in Parliament, had as they were aware taken a very prominent part in the affairs of the country. He had touched very lightly on that this evening, but as a looker on, although a colleague of his, he (Mr. Lackey) in passing through these districts could not but help feeling satisfaction at being the colleague of a man who had so long retained a feeling of regard and affection on the part of the people of the country as shown towards Sir John Robertson during this trip. (Cheers.) From the time of entering the Clarence he had been surrounded by friends, not merely political admirers or supporters, but by those who showed what seemed to him (Mr. Lackey) the respect and affection which gave Sir John Robertson all the appearance of a relative or of a sincere friend coming amongst the people, rather than of a successful politician. (Cheers.) He did not hesitate to say that if there was any one feature in public life which would repay a public man for the self-denial he had to go through, for the entire abnegation of his private interests, and the thorough hard work he devoted himself to, it was a reception such as that he was alluding to. (Cheers.) He only hoped that his friend would be long spared to take part in the politics of the country, for he was sure no man was more filled with a sincere desire for the public good than Sir John Robertson was. (Cheers.) As Sir John had said, the great topic with the people on the tableland was the question of railways. (Hear, hear.) They found that the people of Grafton and the Clarence wanted a railway to New England. Those people did not care two straws where the railway came, so long as it was constructed from one point to the other. He found when he was at Tenterfield that that was the place where the railway should go from. When he came to Glen Innes it became a little warmer—(laughter)—for he found there that the people were still more convinced that Glen Innes was the place where the railway should go from. (Hear, hear.) If it went on at that ratio he did not know what it would be at Armidale, when he and Sir John Robertson went there the following night. But in the action the Government had taken he thought it would be admitted they had taken the right course in travelling through that part of the country, hearing the opinions of the people in the different districts, and learning the reasons they had to urge for the construction of the railway from their point of view. (Hear, hear.) He had great faith in meeting face to face men who had reasons to urge in favour of one policy as against another, and in meeting a deputation at Glen Innes he had heard with feelings of considerable interest the enthusiasm with which they urged the reasons which guided them in endeavouring to induce the Government to select Glen Innes as the proper point at which to connect the railway from the Clarence. (Cheers.) He did not hesitate to say that the people of Glen Innes would be lacking in what was due to themselves and to those who came after them if they failed to put in the most prominent light the reasons which they felt they were justified in urging for the construction of this line. (Cheers.) He could say further, that those reasons which had been put so prominently before himself and Sir John Robertson as members of the Government, would not fail to receive that consideration which was their due. (Cheers.) Of course, he knew there were too many sensible men there present for him to be asked to pledge himself to any direct action in reference to this railway extension. (Cries of "No, no.") There was, as Sir John Robertson had on a previous occasion remarked, more engineering to do than the mere deciding upon the construction of the line, the surveying of routes, or the taking out of quantities; and that engineering consisted in getting Parliamentary concurrence to the expenditure necessary to carry out the work. (Hear, hear.) But he would take this opportunity of reminding those present there that evening that the Parliament had up to the present time entrusted to the Government a very large expenditure. They had shown a very large amount of confidence in the present Administration by entrusting it with the expenditure of a large amount of money, and he hoped the Administration would show itself deeply sensible of this confidence. He hoped that by a proper regard for the furtherance of public works and the extension of railways throughout the length and breadth of the land the Government would show that the Parliament was justified in placing this large amount of money at their disposal a larger amount of money than ever before placed at the disposal of a Government. (Hear, hear.) When he and Sir John Robertson went back to Sydney it would be their duty to represent to their colleagues the various matters put before them, and he hoped it would be found that whatever decision the Government came to it would be admitted to be the fair and proper one. (Cheers.) They had no object to gain besides that of doing their duty, and carrying out that system of railway extension which would most contribute to the public welfare—to the welfare of the whole body of the people—and it was that principle which would guide them in the construction of the railway between the tableland of New England and the seaboard. (Cheers.) While upon this subject he might make a few allusions to the railway policy of the country, and take the opportunity of saying a little with regard to the position we occupied in New South Wales, our railway system having reached the borders of two of our neighbours. We had now reached the border of Victoria on the south, and we hoped before very long to reach the border of Queensland at the north, and to have to make arrangements to connect our railways with those of the colony of Queensland. Well, in carrying out those important works which related to the connection of the railway systems of the different colonies, they would observe that the railway gauges of the colonies were entirely different. We had in New South Wales—and we had never had any occasion to regret it—the ordinary medium gauge of 4 feet 8½ inches. This was the gauge first submitted, which was proposed by our excellent Engineer-in-Chief, Mr. Whitton, and which had been adopted by Parliament, and carried out up to the present time. And it was found that, notwithstanding the reasons urged for smaller gauges on one side, and for larger gauges on the other, we happened to have dropped across the proper gauge, and the one resorted to in the leading countries of Europe. We found that Victoria had a gauge of 5 feet 3 inches, that our neighbours in the north had one of 3 feet 6 inches, and that our friends in South Australia had two or three gauges—one of 3 feet 6 inch, one of 5 feet, and he thought a third. All this showed how necessary it was that some proposal should have been made at the time of the early efforts for the construction of railways in these colonies, for the purpose of having a uniform system from one end of the colonies to the other. (Hear, hear.) Now that we were approaching one another, we found all kinds of confusion. Already we were at differences with our neighbours at the south. We had a gauge of 4 feet 8½ inches on the border at Albury; they had a gauge of 5 feet 3 inches at Wodonga; and negotiations had been going on for the last year between the officers of one Government and those of the other, as to which gauge was the more desirable. Well, although it was generally admitted that our gauge was the best; and although it was the accepted gauge in England and in Europe generally, yet our neighbours in the colony of Victoria did not seem to give way. But the last proposal made between the Engineers in Chief of the two colonies was that the railway line from Victoria with their gauge should be brought into the town of Albury, and that our gauge should be taken into their town of Wodonga, the railway bridge between the two colonies to be constructed at the joint expense of both. This was an arrangement which we were willing to carry out, and which had been submitted to the Government of Victoria, and he hoped that in a short time they would be able to come to a decision. But all this showed with what little consideration those who agreed to the separation of the various colonies did so, when they made no provision for a uniformity of railway gauge between one colony and another. (Hear, hear.) He had occasion at Tenterfield to make reference to the efforts which were now being made to impress upon the people the necessity for the federation of the various colonies. But if federation meant anything it meant uniformity of action in several important features connected with the administration of the affairs of the colonies—(hear, hear)—and he wondered that those very active people now in England who were very desirous for federation did not make provision for a uniformity of railway gauge, uniformity of tariffs, and for several other matters of public legislation which might have contributed largely to the convenience of the people throughout all the colonies. (Cheers.) That, however, had been neglected, and the result was that we found ourselves with different tariffs, and different railway gauges, and altogether, as far as those circumstances were concerned, in a most unsatisfactory way. But, while on the subject of Federation, there was another important circumstance to be considered, and one which was alluded to by his friend, Sir John Robertson, in a speech he made a short time ago. It had struck him very forcibly; for when a high functionary in this colony—our late Governor—was pointing out to the colonists the necessity for federation, Sir John said that before federation was agreed to he would like to understand the circumstances under which these colonies existed, or, in other words, he would like, if they went into partnership, to see what the assets of the different colonies were. (Cheers.) That was a very important question, and he hoped it would be considered so. However, he did not desire to occupy their time by going further into this matter that evening. His object had been to say a few words on the large and important subject paramount in this district, and he could not help making reference to the inconvenience we were now suffering through the difference in the railway gauges of the different colonies. We were now constructing railways in New South Wales at a greater rate than they had ever been constructed in the neighbouring colonies, and that was something we might be proud of. (Hear, hear.) If the resources of the colony were to be brought to the surface there was no more active agent capable of bringing those evidences of wealth to the front than a system of communication which would be the means of settling the people on the lands of the colony, and utilizing their produce after they had settled down. (Cheers.) And we knew that no danger could fall to any country whose credit was good, as ours had been and was now, and whose public works in the shape of railways could be carried out and made to yield the return ours had yielded during the last few years. (Hear, hear.) We found not only that they had been remunerative, but that they had given to the public coffers of the country a return greater per cent. than we were paying for the money borrowed for their construction. (Cheers.) That being the case, he would ask what better work the Government of the country could be engaged in than the carrying out of a railway system which brought about these results. (Cheers.) We must admit that it increased the value of the public estate, and doing that it largely increased the value of the private estate also. (Hear, hear.) Well, we had been engaged carrying out our railway system by constructing our great trunk lines. They had now been pretty nearly provided for. Money had been voted by Parliament for the completion of most of the trunk lines, and after that it would be the duty of the Government to decide what branch lines should be constructed, and it was under that head the expenditure upon that which the people of these districts had at heart would take place. There were a few facts in connection with the railway extensions of the colony which he would like to mention for the benefit of the people in these districts, interested as they were in the matter of railway extension. He found that we had at the present time no less than 958 miles of line in operation. Ten years ago there were only 348 miles of line opened; and the railways, it might be mentioned, had then been in operation sixteen years, so that the average mileage opened annually to that time was only 21¾. During the next five years 91 additional miles were opened for traffic—an annual average of 18 miles only. Since then, however, railway extension had progressed at a rapid rate, 519 miles of line having been opened in the last five years—(cheers)—an average of 104 miles per annum; and it might be stated that within the nine months ending the 1st March last no less than 224 miles of line were brought into operation—a greater extension of line than had been opened in any of the Australian colonies during a like period. (Cheers.) There were at the present time 2219 miles of railway in New South Wales for which money had been voted by Parliament, made up as follows:—Opened, 958 miles; under construction, 489 miles; in course of preparation, 772 miles. The lines under construction and in course of preparation would, it was anticipated, be completed within five years, so that, at the end of that time, there would be more miles of railway open for traffic in New South Wales than in any of the Australian colonies. (Cheers.) Even at the present time we were in advance of the other colonies in the earnings per mile of line; the totals being: Victoria (1879), £1120; South Australia, £665; New Zealand (1880), £648; New South Wales (1880) £1175. (Cheers.) Our railways also were paying a much higher interest upon the capital expended in their construction, the figures being:—Victoria, per-centage on capital, 1879, 3·62; South Australia, per-centage on capital, 1879, 2·91; New Zealand, per-centage on capital, March, 1880, 2·25; New South Wales, per-centage on capital, March, 1880, 4·36. (Hear, hear.) Comparing the present traffic on our lines with that of ten years back, the returns showed an unexampled increase. For instance, in 1870, only 766,523 tons of goods were carried; last year the tonnage was 1,712,971. The passengers travelling in 1870 numbered 776,707; in 1880, they increased to 5,440,138. (Cheers.) The capital invested in lines open for traffic, including rolling stock, &c., was, at the end of 1880, £11,778,819—equal to £12,295 per mile. It was anticipated that when the 2219 miles authorised were completed, the average cost of the whole would not exceed £11,808 per mile. (Hear, hear.) The most satisfactory feature in the extension of our railways was the rapid manner in which they acquired traffic upon them. In England, and older established countries, it was estimated that, to develop traffic on new lines, a period of seven years was required, but the resources of the colony were so numerous and so great that no sooner was a line established than a large increase in the traffic immediately followed. (Cheers.) Last year, notwithstanding that there were so many miles of new lines opened, the revenue derived per mile of line was in excess of that for the two previous years. In fact, the returns showed that last year the railways of the colony were self-supporting, the gross earnings being £1,161,017; the expenditure, £647,719; and the net earnings, £513,298—equal to 4·36 per cent. upon the capital invested. (Cheers.) When it was remembered that our 4 per cent. debentures were realizing from 3 to 4 per cent. in advance of their nominal value, and that we could at the present time obtain for railway extensions any amount of money we required at the same rate, the progress and working of these great highways of traffic must afford grounds for general satisfaction. (Loud cheers.) Then the tramway system had been introduced into the colony; and the lines now in progress about Sydney, while giving satisfaction to the people, were paying a splendid return upon the capital invested in them. (Hear, hear.) It was intended to further utilize the tramways by making them subsidiary or feeders to our railways; and for this purpose a tender had been accepted for the construction of a line from Campbelltown to Camden, and surveys had been made for lines in other places along the railway. If these lines, which were more or less experimental, should prove to be remunerative and answer the purpose of their construction, the application of the system would be made to all parts of the country where the traffic offered a reasonable prospect of development. (Hear, hear.) He was sure those present that evening must be very glad to hear that our railway extensions had been attended with such very great results, which must give confidence to the Government in undertaking further extensions throughout the length and breadth of this land. (Cheers.)

CORONER'S INQUEST.

The City Coroner (Mr. H. Shiell, J.P.) held an inquest at the Callan Park Hospital for the Insane, yesterday, relative to the death of an inmate named John Honeywill. Deceased was 50 years of age, a draper, and a native of England. He arrived from New Zealand in the month of July of last year, and was admitted into the institution last May, in consequence of suffering from softening of the brain, which was supposed to have arisen through losses in business. While at dinner with a number of other inmates on Sunday, he was observed to gasp and struggle, and then turned black in the face. The attendants, finding that a piece of meat had become impacted in his throat, endeavoured to remove it, but did not succeed in doing so. Meanwhile Dr. Scholes, the resident medical superintendent, for whom a messenger had been dispatched, arrived, and also endeavoured to remove the obstruction. As he did not succeed in doing so the doctor, as a last resource, decided upon opening the windpipe, so as to admit air into the lungs. While that operation was being performed the man expired. A verdict was returned to the effect that death arose from suffocation, caused by a piece of meat becoming fixed in the windpipe.

LAW REPORT.

INSOLVENCY COURT.—MONDAY, JUNE 27.

SURRENDER.

Henry John Rucker, of Burwood, near Sydney, clerk. Liabilities, £500. Assets, £15. Mr. Lyons, official assignee.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COURT.—MONDAY.

(Before Mr. District Court Judge COHEN.)

BADMAN V. EWAN.

Plaintiff sought to recover the sum of £57 2s. 4d., balance of account for plastering and cementing 15 houses, at Wells-street, Redfern, and other work in connection with the same buildings. In plaintiff's account there appeared a charge of £297 16s. for 5956 yards of plastering and cementing, at 1s. per yard, and defendant disputed the accuracy of the charge, alleging that the price agreed upon was 10d. per yard. Defendant paid £7 16s. 2d. into court as sufficient compensation. A considerable amount of evidence was called on both sides to prove what the real agreement between plaintiff and defendant was, and also as to the price which ruled in the trade when the contract was made. His Honor, after hearing argument, gave a verdict for the plaintiff for the full amount claimed. Mr. Rogers, instructed by Mr. H. R. Way, appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. W. J. Foster, instructed by Mr. T. S. Williamson, for defendant.

DUNCAN V. O'BRIEN.

This was a claim for £24, alleged to be due for 48 days' hire of a punt, from the 13th November, 1880, to the 7th January, 1881. Defendant did not appear, and his Honor gave a verdict for the plaintiff for the full amount claimed, and assessed the costs at £4 4s. Mr. A. C. Lesley appeared for plaintiff.

HAWKES AND OTHERS V. CRAMPTON.

Plaintiffs, who carry on the business of livery stable keepers in Bligh-street, sued defendant to recover the sum of £20, as compensation for damage to a buggy and mare alleged to have been hired by defendant on the 30th March. The case was a somewhat peculiar one, as Mr. Hawkes was absent through illness, and his counsel called both defendant and defendant's attorney. The evidence was to the effect that on the 30th March Louis Nicholson, son of a member of the firm of Nicholson and Ascherberg (for whom defendant is manager), called at plaintiffs' establishment, and ordered a buggy and mare. On the afternoon of the same day both were returned, the mare being seriously injured in the off hind leg, and the neck and body very much swollen, while the buggy was also damaged to the extent of £6 10s. Upon Mr. Crampton being called on behalf of plaintiff, he admitted having used the mare and buggy on the day in question in order to drive out to Coogee, but denied having anything to do with the hiring. He also stated, in explanation of the accident, that after the mare had attempted to bolt three or four times, he turned her round, and returned to Sydney; but on reaching Bent-street the animal bolted at full gallop, and while going sharp round a corner, capsized the vehicle, causing the injuries for which plaintiff claimed compensation. He also affirmed that young Nicholson was sent by his father to hire the mare and buggy. Upon defendant's solicitor being called he stated that Mr. Nicholson repudiated his liability in the matter on the ground that the accident was caused through the fault or vice of the mare. No evidence was called for the defence, and after hearing counsel his Honor gave a verdict for the defendant, on the ground that he was not satisfied on the preponderance of evidence that Louis Nicholson was the agent of defendant. Mr. Simpson, instructed by Messrs. Holden and Lawrence, appeared for plaintiffs; and Mr. Rogers, instructed by Mr. Dunn, for defendant.

FREDERICK V. ROBINSON AND ANOTHER.

Plaintiff in this action sought to recover the sum of £23 for services rendered in connection with the purchase, in April last, of a steam launch called the Emily May, which defendants bought for the purpose of entering upon a trade at Hobart or the Gippsland Lakes. Plaintiff's evidence was to the effect that, from the 20th February to the 22nd April, he acted for defendants in endeavouring to obtain a steam launch suitable for their purposes, and eventually introduced them to a Mr. Halstead, who agreed to sell them the Emily May. Defendants, on the other hand, denied that the services alleged were rendered by plaintiff, and Mr. Halstead was called to prove that Mr. Robinson came to him personally about the purchase of the Emily May, without plaintiff's intervention, and that the transaction was closed by Robinson himself. Verdict for the plaintiff, £12. Mr. W. J. Foster, instructed by Mr. John Williamson, for plaintiff; and Mr. Slattery for defendant.

LAW NOTICES.

DISTRICT COURT.—TUESDAY, JUNE 28.

Frederick v. Halstead, Cains v. Grant and another, Boys and another v. Glascon, Ryan v. Bate and others, Foy v. Dove, Mocks v. the Borough of the Glebe.

POLICE.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

The Police Magistrate was assisted yesterday on the Criminal side by Messrs. Hunt, Moses, Armstrong, and Cameron; and on the Summons side by Messrs. Alexander, Fraser, and Bull.

Of 65 persons fined for drunkenness, six were also charged with having made use of indecent language, on which ground they were severally sentenced to pay 40s., or to be imprisoned one month.

John Davis, having while in custody for drunkenness assaulted the constable, was for that offence sentenced to be imprisoned one month.

Charles Weldon, described as a painter, charged with begging in George-street on Sunday afternoon, was adjudged to be guilty of the offence, and was sentenced to be imprisoned seven days.

George Fox, 18, found playing at pitch and toss in a public place at the Glebe, on Sunday afternoon, was sentenced to pay a penalty of 20s., or to be imprisoned seven days.

George Brown and Samuel Bennett, severally convicted of being idle and disorderly persons, having no lawful means of support, were sentenced to be imprisoned with hard labour three months.

Alice Wiley, convicted of being a common prostitute, found wandering in a public place and behaving in an indecent manner, was sentenced to be imprisoned one month.

Caroline Maim, alias Bradshaw, apprehended under similar circumstances, was sentenced to be imprisoned six months.

Frederick Seale and Cornelius Mortimer, charged with having stolen one £1-note, the property of David Moore, denied the charge, and having declined the summary jurisdiction of the Bench, were committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions. The prosecutor, a young man from the country, deposed that on Saturday morning he met with the prisoners at the Clarence boarding-house, Market-street, and drank with them both there and afterwards at two public-houses in the neighbourhood; in the Governor Bourke Hotel, Seale asked him for the loan of a shilling, which he consented to do, and with a shilling drew from his pocket a £1 note, which Seale at once snatched away, and both prisoners immediately left him; they took different directions, but he followed Seale until he met a policeman, who took him into custody. The other prisoner was apprehended later in the day. On both silver money was found, but no note on either.

In the Summons Court, Michael Kelly was fined 20s., for using words calculated to provoke a breach of the peace; in King v. Shelher, for assault, defendant was fined 10s.; and in M'Glinchy v. Carroll, a proceeding to recover possession of a dog alleged to be illegally detained, an order was made for the delivery of the animal.

WATER POLICE COURT.

Mr. Marsh, W.P.M., was assisted yesterday by Messrs. Goodridge, Gray, and O'Connor, Js.P.

Thomas Moore was charged with stealing a lady's gold watch, value £5, the property of Kate M'Kinnon. The prosecutrix was a domestic servant in the employment of Mr. Comber, of 149, Macquarie-street. On the 17th instant the prisoner went to the house, entering by the back part of the premises, and begged for something to eat. He was told to come inside, and while the prosecutrix went to the larder to get him something to eat her watch was taken off her dressing-room table, which was in a room adjoining that in which Moore had been left. He afterwards told a man named Kenney that he had a lady's gold watch, which he wished to sell for 25s. Prisoner was committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions.

William Cameron, alias Henry Campbell, who was described as an engine driver, for stealing a pair of boots, value 10s., the property of a Chinaman named Gin Sen, was sent to gaol for two months.

Thomas Williams, a seaman, was similarly sentenced for stealing a number of brass fittings, value 40s., and the property of Alexander M'Cloud, brass founder, Circular Quay.

Thomas Byrnes, a young man, for being drunk and disorderly in Cumberland-street, whilst he was in charge of his horse and dray, was fined £1. For assaulting a constable whilst he was in the execution of his duty, and for using obscene language, the same defendant was also fined £2 and £1 respectively.

Bernard Wren, a labourer, for being drunk in Chelsea-street, was fined 10s.; and for tearing a constable's great coat he was ordered to pay the damage, 23s., or to be sent to gaol for seven days.

Elizabeth Bedell, 13 years, who was found in a house of ill-fame, was ordered to be sent to the Industrial School at Biloela.

Peter Evans complained against Sydney Gagen for detaining a fox terrier dog belonging to him, and which he valued at £20. An order was made for the dog to be restored to complainant by noon on Wednesday next.

John Williams, Inspector of Nuisances for the Borough of Randwick, summoned Isaac Birchgrove, of Barker-street, for neglecting to keep his yard clean on the 20th instant, thereby causing a nuisance by reason of the offensive gases which were generated. The inspector stated that defendant's yard had a sandy soil. The place was used as a cowyard, and about twenty-five loads of cow manure and liquid matter had been allowed to accumulate. An order was made for the nuisance to be abated.

A number of offenders were fined for drunkenness, and several charges of assault were heard, as well as some informations for offences of a minor character.

ASTHMA.—JONAS WHITCOMB'S REMEDY. Prepared from a German recipe obtained by the late Jonas Whitcomb, in Europe. It alleviated this disorder in his case when all other appliances of medical skill had been abandoned by him in despair. In no case of a purely asthmatic character has it failed to give immediate relief. It contains no poisonous or injurious properties whatever; an infant may take it with perfect safety. JOSEPH BURNETT and Co., Manufacturers and Proprietors, Boston. The superiority of BURNETT'S FLAVOURING EXTRACTS consists in their perfect purity and great strength. METAL SEASON TICKETS AGAIN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have been a season-ticket holder for a year or so on our suburban line, but have preferred the card ticket to the metal, because it is much more convenient and I have had nothing to pay for it. My time fortunately expires at the end of the month, and to-day I have been compelled under the new regulations to fill in the form (a week before the day of issue) to obtain the metal ticket, for which I have had to pay a deposit of 5s. My wife and daughter wish to avail themselves of the following clause:—"When ladies, being bona-fide members of a family residing in the same dwelling—the head of which is a season-ticket holder—take out at the same time season tickets for the same stations and periods, half rates only will be charged." They, too, will be compelled to deposit five shillings each for this metallic luxury, making fifteen shillings outlay in tickets only, and which we do not like, but are enforced to take.

What ladies are going to do with them, I cannot say; they have nothing to attach them to, and are always liable to lose them. It is, however, surprising that the Railway Department should adopt so retrogressive, as well as arbitrary, course, for I feel sure from conversation I have had that it will meet with general disapproval, and tend to lessen suburban traffic. The plea of cost of manufacturing these tickets can scarcely be put forth, as the value of the large amount of money paid for season tickets (in advance) would be more than sufficient to meet such expense. Houses and Land for Sale.

WHERE IS BARDWELL PARK?
BARDWELL PARK consists of a block of about 250 ACRES of LAND, situate about a mile beyond COOK'S RIVER, between WOLLI CREEK and the WOLLONGONG ROAD, to which the ESTATE has a very large frontage. This position of the estate is very fine; the views OVER Sydney are grand in the extreme; the larger portion of it has been sold; there is, however, one block of 15 ACRES REMAINING, the price for which is £200 per acre.
PORTION OF THE ESTATE JOINS the village of ARNCLIFF. There are a few small Lots there, 66 FEET frontage by 198 in depth; the price for these is 10s per foot.
The BULK of the unsold portion of the ESTATE lies between WOLLI CREEK and the BARDWELL BROOK, which intersects the estate and joins WOLLI CREEK, near Mr. FARELL'S. It consists partly of a loamy slope along the banks of WOLLI CREEK, well adapted for MARKET and COTTAGE GARDENS and ORCHARDS, from the sheltered situation of the land.
The SECOND PORTION consists of a level elevated BLOCK between the above land and BARDWELL BROOK. The views from this portion of the ESTATE ARE GRAND; it abounds with excellent building stone, is nicely timbered, and the soil in many places good; it is well adapted for building sites.
IT HAS BEEN divided into sections, each surrounded by CHAIN STREETS, and each section subdivided into ALLOTMENTS of from ½ to 1½ acre each.
The PORTIONS NOW FOR SALE consist as under:—

TARAXACUM and PODOPHYLLIN.—Prepared only by J. Pepper, London. This Fluid combination, extracted from medicinal roots, is now used instead of blue pill and calomel for the cure of dyspepsia, biliousness, and all symptoms of congestion of the liver, which are generally pain beneath the shoulders, headache, drowsiness, no appetite, furred tongue, disagreeable taste in the morning, giddiness, disturbance of the stomach, and feeling of general depression. It sets the sluggish liver in motion, very slightly acts on the bowels, giving a sense of health and comfort within 24 hours. It is the safest medicine. Taraxacum and Podophyllin is a fluid made only by J. PEPPER, Bedford Laboratory, London, whose name is on every label. Bottles, 2s 9d and 4s 6d. Sold by all Chemists. A most valuable and essential medicine for India, Australia, the Cape, and Colonies generally. Sold by ELLIOTT, BROTHERS, Sydney.

"SULPHOLINE LOTION."—An External Means of CURING SKIN DISEASES. There is scarcely any eruption but will yield to "Sulpholine" in a few days, and commence to fade away, even if it seems past cure. Ordinary pimples, redness, blotches, scurf, roughness, vanish as if by magic; whilst old, enduring skin disorders, that have plagued the sufferers for years, however deeply rooted they may be, "Sulpholine" will successfully attack them. It destroys the animalculæ which cause these unsightly, irritable, painful affections, and always produces a clear, healthy, natural condition of the skin. "Sulpholine" Lotion is sold by most Chemists. Bottles, 2s 9d. Made by J. PEPPER and CO., London. Sold by ELLIOTT, BROS., Sydney.

LIVER COMPLAINTS.—Dr. KING'S DANDELION and QUININE LIVER PILLS (without Mercury). MUMBLEBONE STATION.
Bligh District.

For Absolute Sale.

PITT, SON, and BADGERY have received instructions from Messrs. Kater and Davidson to sell by auction, at the Exchange, Sydney, on WEDNESDAY, 13th July, at 12 o'clock,
Their well-known fattening run, MUMBLEBONE, of an estimated area of 90,000 acres, together with about

40,000 sheep
1,000 cattle
5,300 acres freehold and secured land.

This splendid property, which is situate about 20 miles below Warren, has a frontage of about 16½ miles to the Macquarie River, and about the same to both sides of the Crooked Creek.
It is substantially fenced into 9 large and 5 small paddocks, and there is a comfortable homestead, good new woolshed for 24 shearers, &c.
The country, which consists wholly of myall and saltbush plains, is quite equal to anything in the district; and during the past summer upwards of 50,000 sheep have been depasturing on it, this number having since been reduced by the sale of some 6000 or 7000 fat wethers and 3000 cull ewes, the latter of which were sold at 9s 9d.
The sheep consist of about 12,200 lambing ewes (none over 6 years), 6000 fattening wethers, the rest from 2 to 6-tooth, and all station bred. They have always been carefully culled, and compare favourably with most Riverina flocks.
Shearing will commence early in August, so that the purchaser will have an immediate return from the clip, and will also have some 10,000 lambs given in.
The run is put into the market solely on account of the present partnership having expired, and the determination of the principal partner to take a trip to the old country.
Horses will have to be taken at a valuation, there being several valuable brood mares, entires, &c.; but stores, belongings, &c., will be given in.
The terms will be one third cash, and the balance at one, two, and three years, with interest payable at 6 per cent.
The Auctioneers deem it superfluous to say anything in praise of the property, but will be happy to show intending purchasers plans, particulars of stock, &c., on application to them.
PITT, SON, and BADGERY, Agents.

THURSDAY, 30th JUNE, 1881,

CARWELL.

WILKINSON, GRAVES, and LAVENDER, Sydney (in conjunction with Ryan and Hammond, Melbourne), have received instructions from the proprietors, Messrs. Chambers, Splatt, and Severne, whose partnership has expired by effluxion of time, to SELL by PUBLIC AUCTION, at MENZIES' HOTEL, MELBOURNE, on THURSDAY, the 30th JUNE NEXT, at 2.30 p.m. sharp,
The following runs in the Bligh District, N. S. W., viz.—
BOGERA, MOBALA No. 1, MOBALA No. 2, MERRY, MERIMBA, and MOONBAH, known as the CARWELL STATION,
and having an area of over 90,000 acres of thickly-grassed salt and cotton bush country, second to none for fattening and wool-growing properties, and having a frontage of about 16 miles to the Marthaguy and 16 miles to the Mirri Mirri Creeks, as well as a double frontage of 9 miles to the Back Creek; in fact, one of the very best watered runs in New South Wales. The whole is well fenced, and judiciously subdivided into numerous paddocks.
There is a good homestead, also two good outstations, with horse paddocks, sheep drafting yards, woolshed, &c.
With the station will be sold
52,000 FIRST-CLASS SHEEP,
specially selected by Mr. Chambers from some of the very best flocks in Riverina, including Pevensey, Warbreccan, Paika, Wanganella, Peppina, Togannain, Thelangerin, Collaroy, &c., &c.; all of which have been carefully classed for the last six (6) years. The culls sold
And amongst which are included
18,000 EWES NOW LAMBING.
Also, a small herd of high-class cattle—about 190, and 35 working horses, &c.
The agents wish to call special attention to this property, which as a squatting investment is second to none, being good, sweet, thickly-grassed fattening country, whilst the stock are from the very best Riverina flocks, all carefully classed and culled, as above.
There is every prospect of a prolific lambing and a heavy wool clip, whilst the character of the sheep ensures a ready sale for all surplus stock when such are acquired. The Auctioneers wish to call SPECIAL ATTENTION to this in every way desirable property, which is for bona-fide sale.
